

Mungo Martin

First Indian Given Coveted Medal

Canada Honors Mungo Martin

OTTAWA (UPI)—The late Chief Mungo Martin, Victoria's world-famed carver of totem poles, has been awarded one of Canada's most coveted awards, it was disclosed here last night.

Chief Mungo, who died Aug. 16, 1962, at 80, is the first native Indian to receive a Canada Council medal—and only the second to receive it posthumously.

His widow died early this year. His son-in-law, Henry

A $2,000 cash prize goes with the medal, except for posthumous awards.

The council termed Chief Mungo a "great artist" for his efforts to safeguard and perpetuate the traditions of Canada's Indians.

It said the bronze medals were awarded to him and three other Canadians in recognition of "a lifetime of outstanding contribution to Canada's artistic, cultural and intellectual life."

The others awarded medals are Sir Ernest MacMillan, 70, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for 25 years; painter Frederick Varley, 82, of Toronto, an original member of the Group of Seven; and Edras Minville, 73, dean of the social sciences faculty at the University of Montreal.

Minville was honored for his efforts to prepare the way for "Quebec's quiet revolution."

The council said "he was one of the few who sought to drive home to his compatriots the importance of economics as a basis for and a condition of their province's development."

Chief Mungo was cited for his recordings of songs, ceremonies and other Kwakiwilt culture as well as his totem poles. The awards will be presented in March.

Venezuela

British Envoy Terror Target

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists machine-gunned the residence of British Ambassador Sir Douglas Bask Wednesday, apparently signalling the broadening of pro-Communist attacks in Venezuela.

Bullets crashed through a window and damaged the roof of arms at the entrance to the residence, but Lady Bask and servants were unhurt. The Ambassador was away at the time. The residence is in the fashionable country club section of eastern Caracas.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation, the terrorist underground, telephoned newspapers Tuesday warning that henceforth British as well as U.S. and Venezuelan government installations would be attacked. No reason was given.

THREE KILLED
The attack on the British residence came after a night and day of terrorist attacks elsewhere in Caracas, in the interior and on the west coast. At least three persons were killed.

Despite their failure to disrupt Sunday's national elections, the pro-Communist terrorists pressed on in an attempt to topple President Romulo Betancourt before he leaves office in March after a five-year term.

LEONI WINNER
The count by the Supreme Electoral Council proceeded slowly. Council officials said they expect to proclaim formally by Sunday what every one knows—that Paul Leoni of Betancourt's Democratic Action party has won the presidency.

With 2,100,000 of about 3,000,000 votes tabulated, the official count was: Leoni 639,387 and his nearest opponent, Rafael Caldera, 413,644.

Senators Kill Senator

BRASILIA (Reuters-UPI)—Two Brazilian senators blazed away at one another with six-shotguns on the Senate floor Wednesday, fatally wounding a third senator. The two duellists were unscathed.

Armando de Melo, a Christian Democrat, and Silvestre Pericles, a Laborist, both former governors of Alagoas state and long-time political enemies, traded the shots.

Sen. Jose Calixto, a Laborist from Acre state, was wounded and died several hours later in a hospital.

Senate president Moura de Andrade closed the session after the shooting and ordered the arrest of the unhurt de Melo and Pericles. They were confined at military headquarters. It was believed the Senate would expel the senators.

The shooting started when de Melo refused to speak with his back to his old political enemy Monteiro, because he claimed the latter had threatened to kill him.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson will go to Washington Jan. 22 to confer with President Johnson, it was announced late Wednesday in the Canadian and United States capitals.

Pope's Visit

Holy Land Joyful

JERUSALEM (AP)—Expressions of joy and surprise marked reaction here Wednesday to word Pope Paul intends to visit the Holy Land in January (See story, Page 37.)

Jordan's radio broadcast the news.

"We are overjoyed, the people are overjoyed," said Msgr. James Beltritti, chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church's Jerusalem patriarchate. "But about details, we know nothing as yet."

A priest in Jerusalem termed Pope Paul's trip "a really historic event."

In Beirut, Lebanon, a spokesman for the Moslem grand mufti of Jerusalem said: "We heartily welcome the visit of Pope Paul to Jerusalem. We hope the visit will help him see for himself the facts there and the persecution to which Christians and Moslems have been subject at the hands of the Israelis. We hope by his international influence on all Catholics he may help find a just solution to the problem."

Archimandrite Goffrall Salibi of the Greek Orthodox bishopric of Beirut, asked for his own reaction to the forthcoming visit, replied: "This concerns the Catholic hierarchy and we have no opinion."

Premier Hurt

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI)—Premier Walter Shaw, 55, was released from hospital Wednesday night following treatment for minor injuries sustained when he, his wife and sister were involved in a car accident near Cornwall, P.E.I.

General arrangements were completed after consultations between External Affairs Minister Martin and Secretary of State Dean Rusk earlier in the day at Washington, where Mr. Martin is visiting on other business.

BRIEF ENCOUNTER

The invitation by the new president was originally extended in a brief personal encounter when Mr. Pearson attended the Washington funeral of President Kennedy Nov. 25. Inevitably, the January meeting will recall another and gayer consultation just last May when Mr. Pearson as a new prime minister paid his first official visit to Mr. Kennedy, who played host at the Cape Cod

Mixed N-Crews Out?

PARIS (UPI)—Lawmakers tried Wednesday rejected in force of surface ships with mixed crews.

The rejection came on a key resolution presented to the seven-nation assembly on the Western European Union (WEU), an advisory body made of parliament members from Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The assembly's vote has no binding force. But the resolution will be passed on to the governments of the seven WEU member nations as an indication of opinion of members of their parliaments.

Wedding Ring Returned

Kennedy Children's Bodies Laid to Rest Near Father

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late President Kennedy's two children who died at or shortly after birth were laid to rest near their father's grave at Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday night.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the bodies of the infants had been transferred from a hospital in Brookline, Mass., and Newport, R.I., and reinterred at services attended by the family.

Presumably the decision to transfer the bodies of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy and an unnamed girl who died at birth were made by the president's widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

A White House source confirmed Wednesday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy got back the wedding ring she had slipped on the finger of her dead husband in Dallas, Tex., after the president's assassination Nov. 22.

Life Magazine said in a story that, at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, Kenneth O'Donnell, the late president's appointments secretary, slipped into the chamber where Kennedy's body lay and brought the ring back to Mrs. Kennedy.

Muslim Joy Confined

CHICAGO (UPI)—The leader of the anti-white Black Muslim sect Wednesday suspended Malcolm X, his militant second-in-command, for expressing joy at the assassination of President Kennedy.

Elijah Muhammad, self-styled Messenger of Allah and head of the black supremacy sect, said Malcolm did not speak for Muhammad when he characterized Kennedy's assassination as an instance of "the chickens coming home to roost."

Malcolm was quoted as saying Kennedy had been "twiddling his thumbs" at the slaying of South Vietnamese President Diem and his brother Nhu.

Mrs. Santa's Kind Hands Return Good for Good

By BRUCE COLEGRAVE

Victoria's Mrs. Santa, the person of Mrs. Mary Smith, 1146 Hillside, is out to beat her own record in repairing and dressing dolls to help sell The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund.

This year marks the seventh year that the skilled hands of Mrs. Smith have brought joy to the hearts of Greater Victoria's most needy families at Christmas.

She takes on this yearly work because she loves the people of Victoria.

Only Money

"I once lost my purse in Victoria and in it the only money I had."

"I put an ad in The Daily Colonist and the response from Victorians was overwhelming," she says.

"I shall never forget the kindness the people showed me and I will dress dolls for the 500 Fund to raise funds for Victoria's needy as long as I am able," she said.

"I am on a pension and do not have any money to give but I can help this way and shall always help others," she said.

Late Start

Mrs. Smith got a late start this year because of a broken finger and also a stay in hospital, but she has worked late hours to make up for it and

Insurance Ruckus in Two Nations

Big Firm Drops NDP Man

TORONTO (CP)—James Renwick, a member of the Canadian board of directors of the Norwich Union insurance company, said Wednesday he was asked to resign from the board because he was an NDP candidate in the Ontario election Sept. 23.

Mr. Renwick, a Toronto

lawyer, said he submitted his resignation Wednesday and his decision was influenced by the resignation of Lord Mancroft as chairman of the company's London board of directors.

Several newspaper reports in London have suggested Lord Mancroft, a Jew with strong connections in Israel, was forced to resign because of pressures from Arab countries.

Mr. Renwick said Henry Borden, chairman of the Canadian board, requested his resignation Nov. 14.

"I was told the members of the Canadian board of directors felt that as a member of the NDP I should resign my position on the board," said Mr. Renwick. "It was also told the board in Norwich concurred with the Canadian board's decision."

Mr. Renwick said he had considered trying to convince

A Crackpot — Not a Red

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Russians judged Lee Harvey Oswald, accused slayer of President Kennedy, to be more of a crackpot than a Communist during his three-year stay in the Soviet Union. That is the conclusion U.S. officials draw from the Soviet consular files by Russian Ambassador Dobrynin.

SPECIAL GROUP

The files, which sources said added nothing of major significance to the case, are expected to be among the materials turned over to a seven-man commission named by President Johnson to investigate the assassination.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, holds its first meeting today to organize its work and procedures.

MAINLY PAPERS

The Russian files were said to consist principally of official documents relating to Oswald's movements within the Soviet Union and his marriage to a Russian girl.

It was believed the Russians, who had not been asked for the files, handed them over to the state department to show they had nothing to do with Oswald.

NO CONSPIRACY

Government sources said earlier an FBI report on the slaying would state Oswald alone fired the shots that killed Kennedy. The report says the president was hit by two bullets, either of which would have killed him.

They said the report concluded Oswald and Jack Ruby, the nightclub operator who killed him, were acting as individuals, not as part of any conspiracy.

Mrs. Oswald Getting $6,000

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Mrs. Shirley Williamson said Wednesday she has collected about $6,000 for Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald and has ended her fund-raising campaign.

"I started out with a $2,000 goal and we have reached that more than twice over," said Mrs. Williamson, a housewife. "Mrs. Oswald is highly intelligent and would have no trouble finding a job. According to the secret service men and everybody, she is very personable."

Latest addition to Tussaud's waxworks in London is Lee Harvey Oswald, 31, who lived two days after Kennedy assassination, for which he was charged. Sculptor Jean Fraser puts finishing touches on clay head for Oswald model. (AP Photofax)

Raging Floods Soak Desert in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel was hit Wednesday by its worst flood in years after several days of heavy rain turned dry river beds and ravines into raging torrents in the Negev Desert. Damage was estimated at more than $300,000.

South Africa

West Joins Afro-Asians Against White Supremacy

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Major Western powers joined Russia and the Afro-Asian world Wednesday in a unanimous new step against South Africa's white supremacy government.

A Norwegian resolution approved by all 11 members of the United Nations Security Council called on all countries to:

1. Comply with a council resolution passed in August banning sale of all arms to South Africa.

2. Halt shipment to South Africa of all "equipment and materials for the manufacture and maintenance of arms and ammunition in South Africa."

MIAMI (UPI) — A former Castro aide said Wednesday he could help prove a cache of arms found recently in Venezuela was sent there from Cuba.

Former Cuba army Major Ricardo Lorie said the weapons were part of $9,000,000 worth of arms purchased by him for the Castro regime in Belgium four years ago.

Asked if he would be willing to help the investigation launched yesterday by the Organization of American States, Lorie said: "If they should ask me to help, I would be willing to do so."

The Castro regime charged the arms were shipped to Venezuela by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

"I recognized one of the rifles shown on television," he said, "and also from information announced by the Venezuelan government."

Lorie said each rifle bears a serial number and the emblem of Cuba. "Now I understand why," Lorie had broken with Castro "Castro was mad at me for having the Cuban emblem put on the weapons," he recalled.

"Castro was mad at me for having the Cuban emblem put on the weapons," he recalled.

Renaming of Cape Brings Protests

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A tide of opposition, official and unofficial, is growing against President Johnson's decree changing the historic name of Cape Canaveral to Cape Kennedy.

Two nearby municipalities—the cities of Cocoa and Cape Canaveral—have sent resolutions to the president and to Florida Governor Farris Bryant protesting the name change.

PROTEST TABLED

A third city, Cocoa Beach, considered a similar resolution Tuesday night but tabled it when local officials indicated they felt little could—or would—be done to change the decision.

In a surprise announcement Thanksgiving Day, President Johnson said the giant spaceport had been renamed the John F. Kennedy Space Centre and the geographic name of the cape would thereafter be Kennedy rather than Canaveral in honor of the martyred president.

The general opinion was that the decision to name the spaceport itself the Kennedy Space Centre was acceptable. Opposition sprang up, however, to the death of the name of Canaveral, which the cape bore since the earliest days of Spanish exploration 450 years ago.

The city council of Cape Canaveral, a tiny municipality just south of the missile base, expressed an official objection along the lines of a similar resolution passed by the city of Cocoa.

Ernie Johnson, past president of the Cocoa Beach Chamber of Commerce, said, "I am heartily in favor of renaming the centre, but I am bitterly opposed to changing the name of the cape."

Heavy Water

Price Boost Boast Charged to Promoter

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Thompson said Wednesday the promoter of a government-assisted heavy water plant boasts his policy is to negotiate a higher sales price from the federal government than the price quoted in his company's winning bid to build the plant.

Mr. Thompson's statement in an interview followed a lengthy exchange in the Commons between him and industry minister Drury about prices and subsidies for the heavy water plant.

Mr. Drury informed Mr. Thompson that the bid of Deuterium of Canada Limited of $20.50 a pound for heavy water was the lowest "unconditional" proposal among those considered for the $30,000,000 project.

He said the federal government also will be paying about $1 cents a ton subsidy for coal to be used in producing steam necessary for the production of heavy water.

Mr. Thompson said in an interview one of four bidders for the plant offered a lower price—$19 a pound decreasing to $18 in five years—and the coal subsidy will mean a price to Deuterium of $21.50 a pound.

He said the head of Deuterium of Canada, Jerome Spevack, "has boasted that his policy is to contract a cheap price and then negotiate a higher price later with the government."

INTERESTING REASON
"The reason for his (Mr. Spevack's) severance with United States Atomic Energy Commission at the Savannah River heavy water plant might be interesting."

Mr. Thompson said three "legitimate Canadian companies" have been left out in the cold.

"Any one of these offered to build in Nova Scotia if it could be proved more economical. Again the taxpayer has been sold down the river."

Caution Needed

THOUGH FEW CANADIANS will take exception to Federal Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh using her recent junket through the West to boost the proposed Canada pension scheme, many will question a number of the statements she made on the occasion.

For instance, Miss LaMarsh spread the impression that she was quite bitter about the fact that most objections to the scheme had been put forward by insurance and trust companies and actuarial concerns though she offered little if anything to refute their charges that the national plan was unworkable under the suggested rate of contributions.

Rather than this, she made a sweeping statement that the initial premium of 2 per cent of income will not have to be increased until the year 2010, when they will probably be upped to 4 per cent.

On this count Miss LaMarsh appears to be on shaky ground unless she has evolved a completely revolutionary method of calculation.

Rather than depend on any insurance, trust or actuarial company to challenge this reckoning, Canadians would be advised to relate Miss LaMarsh's contention with the social security program now in operation in the United States.

The U.S. social security scheme went into effect in America in 1937 when the rate of contributions was 2 per cent on the first $3,000 of earnings equally shared by employer and employee with the maximum benefit being $85 monthly.

At present the maximum benefit has risen to $116 a month, but the rate of contributions is 7 1/4 per cent on the first $4,300 of earnings.

In three years time the maximum benefit will be raised to $127 a month, but the rate of contributions will then be 9 1/4 per cent on the first $4,800 of earnings.

Thus in 30 years the rate of contributions will have increased from 2 per cent on $3,000 per year to nearly 10 per cent on $4,800 with benefits rising from $85 a month to $127.

It is interesting to note at this time that U.S. social security benefits are far below the standard of $173 a month envisaged by Miss LaMarsh and her departmental actuarial experts. It is also worth mentioning that 25 per cent of aged persons in the United States receive nothing at all under their system and that the average social security benefit is less than Canada's now universal $75 monthly pension.

If Washington's financial experts—whom the Liberal administration are only too quick to suggest are the world's best—cannot make their own scheme work, can it be reasonably expected that Miss LaMarsh can make hers work for Canada?

Every Canadian who looks forward to retirement some time in the future will hope that the LaMarsh plan will come out the way she sees it, but a good many would advocate a more cautious approach to the matter than has hitherto been demonstrated by government spokesmen.

Of Vital Concern

UNDER the auspices of TCA memorial services will be held today in Montreal and Toronto for the victims of the grievous jet-liner crash last week which took a toll of 118 lives. This was a tragedy which touched the heart of the nation and drew instant and sympathetic reaction.

Many thoughts will be with those relatives burdened with sorrow as a result of this unfortunate disaster, the worst in the airline's and the country's history.

Investigators are still pursuing their enquiries to determine the cause of the crash, whether the result of human error or mechanical failure in any respect. This is of vital concern and to no one more than the airline itself.

Probably air travel can never be guaranteed against the hazard of accident, no more than automobile travel on public highways, but by its very nature the standards demanded of operators are crucial and exacting. But while the Montreal disaster gnaws the splendid safety record of TCA it points also to the high degree of performance sustained by the airline over many years.

In this respect TCA is not exceeded by any large-scale aircraft carrier presently flying the travel routes of the sky.

It is to be expected nevertheless that the utmost in continuing examination and precautionary measures will follow the probe into this dire and deeply felt happening, so that the safety levels may be raised even more if possible for the assurance of the airborne public.

Unfair Disparity

MAYOR WILSON at the official opening of the rebuilt intersection replacing Fountain Circle took the opportunity to call for an end to discrimination against cities in British Columbia's payment of highway costs. The highways, the mayor noted, are built and maintained entirely at provincial expense through municipalities of other than city status—Saanich being a good example. Yet within city boundaries the burden descends almost totally on the local taxpayers.

Is this fair? There are arguments on both sides. But none surely that would justify such extreme disparity of treatment.

It cannot be questioned that highways help bring the cities their life-blood of business. And the not-so-central municipalities benefit less in this respect, especially if such mercantile hubs as they may have are bypassed.

On the other hand highways do not cease to be of use to the whole population of the province when they enter city borders; they remain highways, main and secondary, despite dual gauge as city streets, and a most important part of the system. Nor do city dwellers, almost exclusively paying for them, escape provincial taxes—license fees and gasoline tax—to help meet the cost of the rural and suburban sections.

Thus there would seem to be a strong case for amendment of the present system, not to load some of British Columbia's road expense on the district municipalities and villages through which the cross-country arteries pass, but to recognize that the major thoroughfares and particularly the main highway continuations in the cities are substantially a provincial responsibility. Victoria's MLAs could well be expected to present this case forcibly to their government colleagues.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

MAN does not live by bread alone, 'tis said, and of course he could not live either if he couldn't communicate with others. Life would then be dull indeed.

There is no risk of that, nowadays, when the media of contact, by the printed word, by signal, drawing, not to speak of TV, Teflar, verbal, exhortations, et cetera, were never so widespread.

The art of communication, as a magazine reminds me, is as old as civilization itself. Older indeed, for we don't count the cave-man as civilized—maybe we should, all things considered—and he spoke even if he couldn't write letters.

Letters in plenty are being penned these days as Christmas prompts the exchange of those once-yearly greetings that tell our far-off friends we are still around. These are communications, too, among the earliest and most prized form of personal contact. Letters have one great advantage over other means of communication—they are private.

No one need read their contents but the recipients, provided he or she doesn't leave them lying loosely about.

The larger realm of communication media is not private and isn't designed to be. As an electrical company says in an ad, for instance, it serves the world, via the route of telephone and electronic devices that should, presumably, draw that world closer.

Whether this does or not, in certain aspects at least, is sometimes doubtful, but there can be no lack of awareness of what's going on in different places. Only this week, for instance, four prime ministers had a cosy chat on the telephone, separated by space but not by a handmaiden that shrinks the globe.

And as I write this the colored lights at the fountain circle that was have been turned on, with their communicative warning to motorists to stop and go—when they're told. Told by a robot that doesn't speak but is emphatic nevertheless. 'Tis a great boon to motorists is a traffic signal, even if it's roundabout conglomeration seems at the moment to back up traffic outside my window more than ever it did.

But then it is $1.49 Day in town and that's as magic a lure as ever graced the temptations of mankind—perhaps I should say womankind. The latter does, as Nelson did and as the magazine I mentioned recalls, turn a blind eye to a signal bearing importantly on action.

Nelson dodged the communication sent in his direction, but signals, in the shape of informing and appraising, are basic in the military realm. Our methods are sophisticated nowadays—early warning devices, data and control links, guidance and command contacts, et al, but primitive means were often effective.

Yours truly can remember how hallograph and lamp were brought into play in communication over long distances, a far cry from the contact modern electronics ensure but in their day of no little worth.

Much more pleasant, however, it is to contemplate the twinkling lights that keep city travellers to their turns at the intersections. And to think of the communicative media that are civilian in intent.

Television I suppose must be included here, for it never ceases to send us messages, at radio intervals, and these sink in and accomplish their purpose despite us. And there is that constant and valuable source of communication, the daily press, which not surprisingly I put high in the order of the overall media we are discussing.

But I was thinking of the other, intimate realm of communication, that derived from the association of friends, in concert at gatherings and the like which at this time of the year glow with even more warmth than usual. And conjoined with these the cards we send in the most gracious communication of all, the personal link with others. Although, mind you, 'tis not altogether unalloyed as I think of the number of envelopes that have to be addressed.

"This is what I want for Christmas. That should stimulate business, huh?"

"It's terrible how intolerant people are getting."

Life-Work Must Go On

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

I DOUBT whether there has ever been a tragedy which has stirred the Canadian people so deeply as the death of President Kennedy. The feelings of sorrow and of personal loss were instantaneous and from the heart.

And this event has been looked on as a tragedy in all most every other country of the world. Here was an outstanding young statesman, leader of the strongest nation in the world, cut off in a moment, with the best of his amazing career still to come.

What will this great loss mean for mankind? Possibly chaos and widespread fear, hatred and recrimination—no one can tell. It would not be surprising if that were the result for this man, because of the office he held, was the most important individual in the world and to replace him without upheavals is an exceedingly difficult task.

Primarily it is a task for the American people and their leaders and I believe they will rise to meet the crisis—as they have met other crises in the past. Certainly they will have the sympathy and understanding of all Canadians as they face this responsibility—superimposed on the already heavy responsibility of world leadership—which incidentally they did not seek but had thrust upon them.

Let us hope too that the leaders and people in all the lands will be brought to their senses by the great tragedy; that it will make them realize clearly that this man's life-work of reducing tension and promoting understanding must go on; that there must be no faltering because he is no longer with us.

That, of course, is what he would wish done.

In 1961 I had the privilege of accompanying Prime Minister Diefenbaker when he visited President Kennedy a few weeks after the inauguration. We were accompanied by the White House by the Hon. Arnold Heeney, then the Canadian ambassador to the United States and an extremely successful one. The president had with him his secretary of state, Dean Rusk, and Livingston Merchant who had been American ambassador to Canada—and a very capable and popular ambassador too.

The first thing that struck me was a painting hanging in the ante-room just beside the door into the president's office. It had been done by a member of the crew of the torpedo boat that was commanded in the Pacific during the war and showed the vessel being sunk by Japanese fire. In that action the president had saved the life of one of his men and for this had been decorated.

The remaining pictures were of American naval vessels of other days being victorious over unfortunate British vessels. We commented on this to the president later and he replied that it did seem strange that the Americans had won all the naval battles in these earlier wars—and asked us to get him one showing a British ship triumphing.

In due course he received a print of HMS Shannon forcing the Chesapeake to haul down her flag off Halifax.

The president could not have been more friendly. He was a remarkably good listener, which is an attribute not often found in public men, and less frequently the higher up the ladder they go.

When the interview had finished we walked through that part of the White House to a small dining room and during the meal there was the same friendly informality. Afterwards he and the prime minister led off on a short walk through the grounds to the door through which we had entered originally. Walking bareheaded and with his coat open though it was a cool day, the president seemed very young—almost boyish—and I thought of the tremendous responsibility carried by this American—and carried with such courage and spirit!

The photographers and pressmen were waiting at the door—in droves—and they took over for the rest of the visit. However, as I was saying "goodbye" to the president he drew me aside and told me that he was deeply interested in measures that would reduce tension in the world, and in disarmament. He spoke with great earnestness and apparently knew of the efforts Canada had been making in this direction. At no time subsequently did I have any reason to doubt his sincerity.

Now the torch has been thrown to other hands—may they have the courage and patience and the idealism that is required to keep mankind moving forward and upward. And may the people of the world give them support.

Glimpsing the Inner Man

By MARQUEE CHILDS

WHAT is President Johnson really like? That question is being asked not only all over America but throughout the world.

The aura of power and partisan politics will rapidly close in to shut off the view. This is inevitable in the office he now holds. In the first rush of sympathy the sincere desire of almost everyone is to give all aid and comfort possible to the new president who must take up his intolerable burden.

It is being said with accuracy that he is the best-trained vice-president ever to come into the presidency. He has traveled to most areas of the world, he has sat in on most of the important conferences, he was at the elbow of the late president when the great decisions were being taken. But this ignores the temperament of the 55-year-old Texan, and temperament is as important as training in weighing the balance.

From several who have worked closely with him in his nearly three years in the vice-presidency, this is an attempt to get a glimpse of the inner man. First of all, he is a Texan in the best sense of that special statehood, unmannered by the halcyon days so widely advertised in recent years. He is, therefore, an activist.

It will be both his strength and his weakness in the presidency. The lesson he must learn is restraint—reflection and restraint. The model to serve him well in this department is the late President Kennedy.

Yet as an activist in the vice-presidency, Mr. Johnson has already been schooled in restraint. The two men, the late president and his successor, had one important trait in common. They were both intensely competitive. Each in his own separate and distinct way was out to win.

When Senator Johnson lost his fierce battle for the presidential nomination at the Los Angeles convention in 1960, the cup of defeat was far more bitter than it would have been for most men. His decision to accept second place on the ticket amazed even his closest friends and associates.

As an activist in the vice-presidency, it was hard for him to learn in the first weeks and months that he was not running the show nor even his own sidishow. Long-time friends and loyal admirers counselled him in this trying period on the need for restraint. Experience was a hard master.

One result was an almost tigerish loyalty to his chief, the young man who had beaten him. Mr. Kennedy would say, "Lyndon, I hope that you can help me with such and such a job, and if I could have a paper on my desk that I could sign within three or four days, it would be fine." The vice-president would mow everything down to insure that the task was completed, and under the time limit, too.

Inevitably he clashed with some members of the Kennedy administration, and this has a

Second Look

By RICHARD JACKSON
Columnist Ottawa Bureau

ONE of the most quietly sincere men in the House of Commons, former Conservative Labor Minister, Michael Starr, has given Parliament many critics pause for thought.

No one can question the bonafides of this man. A 10-year veteran of the Commons, he always has been dedicated to the public interest. On the back bench and in the cabinet alike, Mike Starr has been faithful to the responsibilities the people of Ottawa gave him more than 10 years ago when they sent him to Parliament to speak for electors of his constituency of Ottawa, the only riding in Canada named after a province.

Service to his city, his constituency, province and country has been an obligation to which he has given fully of his time and thought and effort.

So when a good MP, good in every sense as man and parliamentarian, asks that you think again, and perhaps take another view of what generally and critically has been termed "absenteeism"—then you're compelled to stop and take a second look. Mike Starr illuminated what might be called the "other side" of the problem of absenteeism when he sat, disconsolately in the Commons the other afternoon, "wasting my time," as he put it.

He begrudged the time that day because he was convinced that it could have been better spent at home in Ottawa where he had been requested, as district MP, to attend the ceremonial opening of the new Boys' Club.

But Mike Starr hadn't accepted the invitation, and could not keep the date, important as it was to his constituency. . . . simply because he hadn't dared take the chance, as he didn't mind admitting, of being marked among the missing in the Commons.

Not missing in any official record, mind you, for the House doesn't keep one, preferring to just accept the word of any MP that he hasn't been absent.

But missing, instead, in the "box score" of absentees that certain newspapers have been compiling on the attendance performance of the MPs, based on who votes—or rather, who does not—when the House stands up to be counted in a formal "division," as it's called.

Some newspapers have taken even to running photos of their district MPs, with their vote attendance records in big black impossible-to-miss figures. Other newspapers have been running the names and constituencies of each and every MP missing a vote.

And all across the country in editorials and letters-to-the-editor, a public hue and cry has been raised against what, often, almost without required qualification, has been called straight absenteeism.

All this has intimidated and antagonized a great many MPs, among them Mike Starr, one of the few to speak in any attempt at explanation or rationalization. To build that Boys' Club, they had passed the community hall around Ottawa, and at the ceremonial opening, Mike Starr, as MP, knew he was expected to attend.

But he didn't dare leave the Commons and run the risk of being tagged an "absentee" should a snap vote be called. So he sat out the day, "wasting my time," as he put it, "listening to things I'd heard a hundred times before."

Mike Starr believes that the worth of an MP is measured in his constituency, not by the time he sits in the Commons, except, of course, for certain ceremonial "must" occasions—but rather by the number of times he sits down to a church supper, a service club luncheon, a veterans' banquet, a Boy Scout father-and-son bean feed, or makes himself available at home and in his riding office to those of his people with tax, pension, job or the hundred other problems with which every good MP is expected to concern himself.

He deeply believes that his people expect to see him working for and among them at home and in his constituency. But when he does, and they read later that he had been among the "absentees" from the Commons, they wonder . . .

So now with the heat of public opinion roasting the "absentee" MPs, he "wastes" his time in the Commons instead of attending to the more vital chores, as he regards them, back home in Ottawa and the riding.

Mike Starr is convinced—as are a great many other MPs—that quite unfairly, and most of the time altogether wrongfully, this sudden critical public emphasis on attendance (or the lack of it) in the Commons has given this Parliament a bad name. And perhaps far worse, he suspects it has impaired an MP's ability to do the kind of job he should.

Mike Starr's point is well worth pondering.

Precious Little

By CASSANDRA
from London

PEOPLE have asked me what I know about the new president of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson.

The answer is, precious little. But I rather treasure the little—which I feel is ridiculously precious.

In 1960 I followed President Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson around the United States and went to such culture spots as Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio, all of which are in Texas.

During the campaign, I visited one of Lyndon B. Johnson's headquarters, where I was received with great civility—even cordiality.

In the committee room there was a young man seated by a piano holding a guitar.

I said to him: "Do you play that instrument?"

"The guitar? Yes, SIR!"

"Would you be good enough to entertain me?"

"Yes, SIR!"

And with that, in a mellifluous voice and with skillful fingers plucking on the strings, he sang a song, the chorus of which ended up with the rousing words: "All the Way With L. B. J."

I thanked him and asked him who had composed the piece.

He replied: "I did, SIR! Words and music."

I said to him: "You are in the presence of the world's worst pianist—I am even worse than your political ally, Harry Truman. I can only play in the keys of C, F, D, and A-minor. I have a horror of black notes. The old color question again. What key is 'All the Way With L. B. J.' written in?"

"Key of C, SIR!"

"Have you the score with you?"

"Yes, SIR!"

"May I attempt to accompany you on the piano?"

"Yes, SIR! Mightily glad to have you play with me!"

And so away we went—"All the Way With L. B. J."

A friend of mine was in Germany when the news of the death of President Kennedy broke.

He tells me that the shock and the horror and dismay was profound.

A deep wave of sadness and anxiety hit the whole nation. Thousands of lighted candles appeared in windows in Berlin—some on the East side of the Wall.

Germans who have fought the Americans in two world wars seem successfully to have buried the past.

They have come to regard the people of the United States as their special protectors—and friends.

The Russian menace is, of course, right on their doorstep, but the relationship that President Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson established between Bonn and Washington was something more than a mere political alliance.

Kennedy Death Bitter Blow

Wilson Loses Friend

By EDWIN ROTH
Colonist European Correspondent

For nobody outside America was the assassination of John F. Kennedy a more terrible blow than for the British Labor Party's leader Harold Wilson.

As he walked through Washington behind the murdered president's casket, he knew that his chances of gaining power in Britain next year had been damaged tremendously by the shots which killed President Kennedy.

... dynamo intellect

Even if Wilson should become Britain's prime minister, President Kennedy's death has deprived him of a friend with whom he probably would have collaborated extremely well.

Britain's Conservative government and its supporters were furious about the friendly personal relationship between President Kennedy and Harold Wilson, which had already begun.

Not only were President Kennedy and Wilson of an age (JFK was one year younger than Wilson), but they also had much else in common. Like Wilson, President Kenedy was a dynamic intellectual, who surrounded himself with intellectuals as advisers. The intellectual Kennedy brains-trust was copied by Wilson during the past year.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, until very recently the 14th Earl of Home, is 60 years old, stands politically very far to the right of President Kennedy, is no intellectual, has no brilliance, has never had any real contact with ordinary people, and could not hope to become President Kennedy's personal friend.

They had absolutely nothing in common.

Home Linked with Appeasement

Even in world history, there was conflict between them. As Neville Chamberlain's parliamentary private secretary, Douglas-Home had gone to Munich with Chamberlain in 1938, when the Munich agreement with Hitler was signed, and handed Hitler Czechoslovakia.

At that time, John F. Kennedy was a 21-year-old college boy. Later he attacked with brilliant, devastating criticism the British policy of appeasing Hitler in which Douglas-Home played a personal part—and which Douglas-Home still defends today.

By contrast with Kennedy, President Lyndon Johnson is probably closer to Douglas-Home than he could be to Wilson. Britain's Conservative propagandists will exploit this with all possible means.

But even more important is the fact that only a few thousand voters in very few marginal constituencies decide which party comes to power. These few thousands are, of course, neither the cleverest

... no intellectual nor the best-informed voters. For them, Lyndon Johnson is someone of whom they heard for the first time after President Kennedy's murder.

They now know that President Johnson is a Texan who wears a cowboy hat, and who—after the Berlin wall had been built—distributed ballpoint pens in West Berlin.

After what happened in Dallas, the image of Texas and Texans in Britain is not favorable. In any British election campaign, most British newspapers become instruments of Conservative party propaganda.

All Conservative newspapers will, during the coming months, hint with varying subtlety that Lyndon B. Johnson urgently needs the advice of such an experienced statesman as Sir Alec Douglas-Home—and that only Douglas-Home could hold back the "inexperience" and "wild Texan" Johnson from endangering world peace.

With a new chancellor in West Germany, and a new president in the United States, Douglas-Home will now claim to be the only experienced, absolutely indispensable leader of the western alliance. This will be shown as enormous new influence for Britain.

That Johnson has immeasurably more political experience than the recent 14th Earl of Home is not known by those Britons whose votes can be influenced by campaigns. In no other democracy has the moron-vote quite the same decisive influence as in Britain.

BBC Began Subtle Derogation

The subtle derogation of Lyndon Johnson was begun—perhaps quite unintentionally—by the BBC. It showed a television interview which Johnson, dressed as a cowboy, gave on his Texas ranch to a Texas TV station.

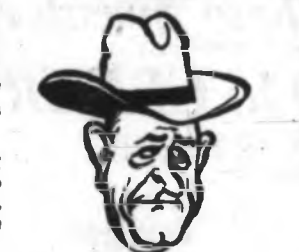

This was Johnson speaking in Texas as folksy Texan to other Texans in simplest, friendliest Texan language clichés.

On British television after President Kennedy's funeral, it became the image of the new president of the United States. Whether the BBC intended it or not—the effect was exactly what the Conservative party would have wanted.

Four days after President Kennedy's death, Britain's Foreign Secretary, Richard A. Butler said publicly that the British government would do everything to influence President Johnson to continue negotiations with Russia.

When Douglas-Home returned from Washington, he declared: "East and West must try their best to move forward from the test ban treaty to further areas of agreement. These were our objectives with President Kennedy when he was alive. They must remain our objectives now."

"I am quite certain that President Johnson will join

... Texan in cowboy hat with us in pursuing them actively and with purpose."

From now until the British general election, Britain's voters will be asked by the Conservatives who could exert more influence or more restraint on President Johnson—young Harold Wilson, or Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Only President Kennedy's death has given the Tories the slogan that a vote against Douglas-Home would be a vote against world peace.

President Kennedy would not have aided Douglas-Home's election campaign. But Douglas-Home expects some help from President Johnson, and would be prepared to pay for it.

Douglas-Home himself holds a trump card. Nikita Khrushchev certainly does not want Wilson to win. Nothing could help Douglas-Home more than a Johnson-Khrushchev meeting in London, for which he would take all the credit.

He would also be delighted to invite Khrushchev to London even without President Johnson, or to fly to Moscow himself. Before the British election, Douglas-Home wants to play the indispensable mediator between East and West.

Britain's so-called independent nuclear deterrent is already a vital election issue. It is demanded by the Conservative government, opposed by the Labor and Liberal parties.

John Kennedy was so immensely popular—even beloved—in Britain, that most Britons had complete trust in him. But now the Conservative party can be expected to hint that under President Johnson the United States might return to isolationism—and that an independent British nuclear deterrent is absolutely essential.

President Johnson's picture in a cowboy hat is very valuable for the British Conservatives.

Harold Wilson has much personal and political reason to mourn John F. Kennedy. It is possible that Kennedy's assassination has changed the political history of Britain.

Squabbling Maltese Leave it to Sandys

The leaders of Malta's five political parties have returned to London for what may be the final attempt to settle constitutional disagreements before independence next year.

As in the past, the most inflammatory issue is the influence of the Roman Catholic Church over the political affairs of Britain's over-populated Mediterranean island colony.

The four opposition parties also are disgruntled over the decision of Prime Minister Borge Olivier to invite Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations minister, to sit in judgment on the issues in dispute.

Sandys accepted the invitation to impose solutions on the disputed points but said he wanted further talks with the leaders in London before he does so.

Sandys announced independence for Malta by next May 31.

after a London constitutional conference last summer which also ended in disagreement, the opposition Labor party refusing to attend the final session.

The Labor party under former prime minister Dom Mintoff says the last elections were "a farce" because voters in the predominantly Catholic island were threatened with economic sanctions if they voted for him. Although there was no formal church ban, some parish priests even decided to proscribe those who attended Labor meetings.

Sandys finds himself in an unenviable position. Although he has indicated sympathy with Mintoff's position, it seems unlikely he will go so far as to approve new elections—particularly since there could be no guarantee the church would not again seek to influence the voting.

Liberal Democrats Move To Punish Party Quislings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson faces a revolt among a group of Democratic liberals in the House of Representatives, a revolt that began before the death of President Kennedy.

It is aimed not at the president, but at Congress itself. It involves the punishment, by withdrawal of party seniority privileges, of those Democrats who refuse to support the national party ticket and policies. President Kennedy always declined to take such a drastic step, preferring conciliation and persuasion.

Leading the revolt is Representative Richard Bolling (Dem. Mo.), one of the party's most articulate and thoughtful strategists in the House.

His target is the "subversives and quislings of the Democratic party," whom he defines as some southern conservatives.

Bolling takes issue with President Johnson's belief, as expressed in his first presidential speech to a joint session of Congress, in "the ability of Congress... to act; to meet any crisis; to distill from our differences strong programs of national action."

By GEOFFREY GOULD
From Washington

Bolling said in an interview that Congress is not "viable," or able to live, under its present structure.

"It is not the fault of the Republicans. They are a conservative party, by and large. But they are responsible. We (the Democrats), on the other hand, are totally irresponsible."

Bolling's solution? "The minimum is, we start with a demand for at least a minimum of party loyalty. They must at least support the national ticket."

"The maximum would have the effect of altering the power structure. This is the only kind of reform that would have any meaning. This can be done," Bolling said, by denying the privileges of party seniority, including committee chairmanships, to southern Democrats who openly defy and work against the national Democratic ticket.

"I think it's inevitable," he said, adding that the change in the presidency has not changed the makeup of Congress.

"We have a feudal situation in the House—a weak king (the Speaker) surrounded by strong dukes (committee chairmen), mostly conservative," Bolling said.

"If the dukes combine against him he's defeated. He's stronger than an individual duke, but not as strong as all of them acting together. Reform is the key."

Bolling summed up his reasons for making a strong new push for "reform." He said: "I think that a lack of confidence in Congress, if continued long, will destroy the democratic process. If the people lose confidence in the national legislature, they've lost confidence in democratic government."

No Bail Allowed Suspect

LONDON (UPI) — An Irish-born, bearded antique dealer was ordered held without bail at Linslade yesterday for a pre-trial hearing as a key suspect in Britain's $7,300,000 "great train robbery," the largest in history.

The suspect, John T. Daly, 31, was remanded in custody on a charge of conspiracy and robbery in connection with last August's crime. He said the charges against him were "all lies."

Daly had been under close and heavy police guard throughout the night in his cell at Aylesbury, the town closest to the scene of the robbery.

He was arrested Tuesday in his $54-a-week apartment in a swanky section of London. Wearing red silk pyjamas, he was sipping tea with his pregnant wife, Barbara, 22, at the time.

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD The search for Daly had spread throughout the world since the night of Aug. 8 when a gang of men ambushed a royal mail train and escaped with millions of dollars of worn bills being shipped to be destroyed. It was the greatest cash robbery of all time.

Eighteen other persons are awaiting trial on charges stemming from the robbery.

Go to Moon For TV Show

LONDON (UPI) — The Motor Agents' Association, which opposes trading stamps, said yesterday a motorist would have to drive from the earth to the moon to get enough gasoline stamps for a television set.

'Hunter Broke Rules'

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A father who shot his son to death was an experienced hunter who broke just about every rule in the book, Kamloops coroner Dr. Ivan Smillie told an inquest jury.

He was addressing the jury Tuesday before sending it out to consider a verdict in the death of Gordon Prigmore, 18, of Cellista, on Shuswap Lake.

The youth was shot to death Nov. 23 while hunting with his father, Glen Harold Prigmore, 40, about 40 miles northeast of here.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and did not make any recommendations. The father said he was stalking a deer when he saw movement in a bush and fired.

Two Years Added to Sentence Because of Crime's Viciousness

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A convicted robber — serving a long prison sentence — asked to be reduced but a court board Wednesday added two years to the term because of the viciousness of his crimes.

Roger J. Levac, 23, of Mattawa, Ont., last May locked a Kensington cab driver in the trunk of his car for 30 hours after robbing him.

ASKED REDUCTION

Levac petitioned the superior court review division board for a reduction of his four to 14 year sentence for three robberies.

The board gave him a two-year increase instead because of what it called the "viciousness of the various crimes" and the "almost total consideration for the victims."

STATE PRISON

Levac's companion, Len J. Picard, 25, of Madawaska, Maine, also received a four to 14-year term in the state prison but did not appeal.

Last May the pair held a knife to the throat of a cab driver in Kensington, and took $59 from him. They tied him up and stuffed him in the trunk of his cab.

PUNCHED MOLER

The driver, Michael Legowsky, punched air holes through the trunk lid but remained a captive in the trunk from 6 a.m. one day until noon the next.

Levac and Picard were also convicted of robberies at a package store and a restaurant in New Britain.

Lost Hunter Found Hurt

TRAIL (CP) — Albert Law, missing since Tuesday night on a hunting trip 45 miles north-west of here, was found by searchers Wednesday with a twisted knee.

RCMP, a tracking dog and 12 members of a volunteer search and rescue team found Law when they heard a shot fired in reply to one by the searchers.

The search began when Law's car was found about eight miles from his home at Deer Park on Lower Arrow Lake.

Burma Closes Third Varsity

Mandalay University was shut down Tuesday, Moulmein University Monday night and Rangoon University Saturday. More than 10,000 students have been affected.

Victoria Greeting

Kings will live at 446 Lampoon with his mother, Mrs. Marie Hazel Patton. They have been in Germany three years. Battalion arrives here later this month. It has been relieved in Germany by Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Nuclear Submarine Launched in U.K.

BARROW-IN-FURNES, England (AP) — The Valiant — Britain's second nuclear-powered submarine and the first entirely home-built — has been launched from the Vickers-Armstrong Shipyard.

The Valiant is 285 feet long and has a beam of 33 feet. Her tonnage is secret.

The first British nuclear submarine, the Dreadnought, was launched from the same yard in October, 1960, and was commissioned last April. Dreadnought has a British hull, but its nuclear reactor is American.

Fight Due in Scotland

LONDON (CP) — A hot fight between two transplanted Canadians is in prospect over Britain's choicest television property.

The franchise for commercial TV in central Scotland comes up for reallocation at the end of July, 1964, and two of the big bidders are Lord Beaverbrook and the present licence-holder, Roy Thomson.

FOUR-FIFTHS

Newspaper magnate Thomson acquired the franchise, covering about four-fifths of Scotland, in 1956, and soon after made his celebrated remark that the licence was like a permit to print money. From the start, the property was a big money-maker.

To this clash between Canadian tycoons, a special piquancy is imparted by Beaverbrook's apparent change of policy. Over the years, his papers have stoutly opposed the principle of commercial TV. Last May, the publisher said his Daily Express group had no ambition to become involved in the field.

JUNIOR MEMBER

But this week reporters spotted Daily Express executives Max Aitken and Tom Blackburn at the offices of the Independent Television Authority, the organization which grants licences.

Aitken, Beaverbrook's son, said later: "We are a junior member of the group that has submitted plans to run an educational, cultural and entertainment station."

LEAPS, BOUNDS

Some members viewed the rival applications as symptomatic of a clash of personalities. Beaverbrook's successful invasion of the British newspaper industry preceded that of Thomson by many years, but the Johnny — come — lately is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

When Thomson invaded Fleet Street from his Edinburgh bridgehead, Beaverbrook gave a statement to a reporter

Referendum Plans

Officials Study School Program

Plans for new schools and classrooms for Greater Victoria are being studied by trustees and principals, and so far they have found little to quarrel with in the program to be put before voters in a referendum next spring.

Trustees first saw the referendum plans Nov. 18. Since then they have studied the proposals and school principals have been asked for their opinions by schools superintendent John Gough.

Total rooms required is 169.

Carrier Home From Europe

HALIFAX (UPI) — The navy's aircraft carrier HMCS Bonaventure has returned home after two months of NATO exercises and visits to West European ports.

Following an exchange of tracker aircraft damaged by rough seas and salt water, the Bonaventure will join Exercise Boat Clock, Army-navy war games off Madam Island in Canso Strait until Dec. 13.

The report said newspapers entered commercial TV solely for commercial reasons. It said that in no company entering the field should the press interest be dominant.

Swan Killer Reward Fund Grows

The Campbell River Fish and Game Club has collected $200 toward a reward fund in hopes of apprehending the killer of five trumpeter swans.

Members of the club are appealing to other island residents to contribute to the fund.

"If we get enough money," a club member said, "it won't be too long before someone gets interested enough to come through with information we need."

The birds were shot over the weekend by a rifleman in the area between Beavertail and Upper Campbell Lake.

DOUBTS APPROVAL

Mr. Gough agreed to discuss this with the education department but doubted the government would approve the idea unless Victoria taxpayers bore the whole cost.

Six rooms are needed at North Ward but it is structurally impossible to add to the building.

INSPECT SCHOOL

Architects will inspect Sir James Douglas, where two rooms are required. Trustees rejected a proposal to build on the play area.

New elementary schools required: Christie Point, Craigflower, North Ridge, Ferndale, Rock Heights, Newton, University Village, school for retarded.

Everyone Waiting For Psychiatrist

NANAIMO — The new addition to the Nanaimo Health Centre is now completed.

Costing $59,000, the unit is intended to house a psychiatric clinic.

The building is finished, the consulting rooms are ready, the equipment installed, the waiting room are waiting for patients and the patients are waiting for treatment.

They may have a long wait.

There is no psychiatrist. The department of health and welfare is attempting to get staff, but apparently private pay is better than government pay.

Until suitable staff can be obtained, the new centre, built at the urgent request of residents of central Vancouver Island, will have to remain ready, willing, waiting and closed.

Police Sue For $24,000,000

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Five Albany policemen have filed a $24,000,000 libel suit against the Hearst Corporation and the Albany Times-Union in connection with stories and editorials the latter published concerning the so-called "Broughton case."

The policemen contend that the published material intended the public to believe that the civil rights of Russell H. Broughton, a New York Telephone Company executive, had been violated.

DISMISSED

Broughton was arrested April 9 last on a charge of interfering with a police officer arresting a Negro. The charge against Broughton was dismissed that same day in police court after Broughton had agreed not to sue the city.

Later, Police Commissioner James A. Kirwin held a public hearing on the matter and upheld the police. Also, Mayor Erastus Corning ordered a grand jury investigation. The grand jury returned no indictments.

In addition to the Hearst and Times-Union, the libel suit, filed Tuesday in State Supreme Court, names the capital newspaper division of Hearst, publisher Gene Robb and executive editor Daniel E. Buton. Robb also is publisher of The Knickerbocker News, the other daily newspaper in Albany.

Anti-Racist Cleric Accused

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — An Anglican bishop in Tanganyika was accused Wednesday of lecturing to an organization called The Friends of Soviet Russia while he had a ministry here.

The otherwise unsubstantiated charge against Rev. Trevor Huddleston was made by Valerio Percival Jelliman, a witness in the trial of 10 men accused of allegedly plotting to overthrow the government and sabotage.

NO DETAILS

Jelliman gave no details of the alleged lecture and did not say when it was supposed to have taken place.

Huddleston, an outspoken opponent of race discrimination, was widely known for his work with blacks in this country. He left South Africa in 1956 and was consecrated bishop of Masasi, Tanganyika, three years ago.

MANY ACCUSED

When the trial opened Tuesday, the Soviet Union and many African countries were accused of pledging assistance to the defendants.

Jelliman said he was caretaker of a house on the northern fringe of Johannesburg. The prosecution claims the house was headquarters for the accused — six Negroes, one Indian and two whites.

Jelliman said he formerly was a member of the Friends of Soviet Russia and met those who lectured to it.

Death Rate Still Too High

Alcoholics Here Need Better Facilities—Psychiatrist

By HARVEY SHEPHERD
(Second of a Series)

Until 1946, 10 per cent of the alcoholics in Greater Victoria died every year, a Victoria psychiatrist estimates.

Since then, he said, a limited and informal program, without funds, has been quietly operating in the Victoria area to provide medical care for the "detoxification" of alcoholics suffering "acute conditions."

This, he said, has reduced the mortality rate considerably, but it could be reduced still further.

If proper facilities were available.

The psychiatrist, who asked not to be identified, was unwilling to go into detail on how the present "detoxification" program works.

And indeed, I found it difficult to ascertain what is available in the line of bed accommodation for an alcoholic in Victoria, let alone what more is needed.

Edward McRae of Vancouver, executive director of the Alcoholism Foundation of B.C., said he believes Victoria hospitals are, generally, doing a good job and he "wouldn't be too critical of the bed situation" in Greater Victoria.

George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, said the hospital will take in alcoholics if they are acutely ill and "people with alcoholic poisoning are acutely ill."

He said, "We never turn down a request from a doctor."

He estimated there are about three people suffering from alcoholic poisoning in Royal Jubilee wards at any given time.

In addition there are alcoholics undergoing treatment in the Bay Pavilion, the Royal Jubilee's psychiatric ward. I was unable to find out how many or any other details.

The Harbor Light Corps of the Salvation Army has one hospital-type bed and can call on the services of doctors. The bed is usually not in use.

A spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital told me the hospital has "nothing specifically set up for alcoholics."

It seems clear, at any rate, there are some alcoholics in some hospital beds in Victoria.

But whether the present, apparently rather hit-and-miss, system is adequate is another question.

I will go further into the question—without, I regret, coming to much by way of conclusions—in the next article.

Blythe Spirit

Nervous Britons Learn Driving With Hypnosis

GLOUCESTER, England (Reuters)—Britain's first "hypnotic" driving school opened here Tuesday.

The hypnotist, Henry Blythe, 65, said, "I expect the ministry of transport will be down on me like a ton of bricks."

Blythe, 25 years a full-time hypnotist, calls his school "the Henry Blythe Hypnotic School of Motoring for Nervous Drivers."

The transport ministry administers driving tests.

Blythe put her in a trance, snapped her out of it and led her to his car where she said: "Now I'm feeling really relaxed. My parents are very pleased I'm doing this."

After a short lesson she said: "I was astonished I could do it. I think after eight lessons I'll pass my test. It's the first time I've ever been in a driving seat."

The school's instructor will be Blythe's son, James, 19, and Blythe will hypnotize would-be drivers before hand.

"I get them to watch intently a four-by-three-foot photo of myself and listen to my voice on a tape recorder," said Blythe.

City Police Car Involved in Crash

A Victoria city police car was involved in a two-car collision at near Wednesday when it struck the rear of a car stopped for the red light on Hillside at Rose.

The driver of the patrol car,

Const. Andrew M. Bell, 2522 Avebury, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a cut finger.

35 B.C. Works on Display

Victoria Artist Judge For Gallery Exhibition

Victoria artist Richard Clodmarra was one of three judges to choose 35 works of art out of 450 submitted for Vancouver Art Gallery's 32nd annual exhibition of B.C. artists.

The show, which opened yesterday and continues to

Jan. 12, includes the work of four Victoria artists.

Ann Kipling, who now lives in Vancouver, will show Dome Mountain and Landscape (two pictures); Donald Harvey, Warrior Tree; Michael Morris, of Sidney, Sunflower, and Flemming Jorgensen, Winter Landscape.

5,000,000-Job Goal Fixed by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 5,000,000 increase in jobs was set by President Johnson Wednesday as a goal for his administration. He also asked organized labor and business to support tax cuts and civil rights legislation.

His appeals were made during a busy day which included a ceremony to honor a secret service man who "volunteered his life to save mine."

MET IN TURN

The president met in turn with the AFL-CIO executive council and members of the business council in the White House cabinet room.

In the strongest of terms, the president told both groups he wants and needs their help. And from leaders of both he received promises of support or expressions of confidence.

From the cabinet room meeting, Johnson went with the AFL-CIO group to the White House flower garden where he made a fighting speech appealing for help on his legislative program.

And he made a little speech to the businessmen after they had moved from the cabinet room to the fish room of the White House.

BANISH FEARS

He advised the businessmen that they ought to banish fears and doubts about his administration.

"This administration," he said, "wants to help you."

Jovial John Jogs Along In Two Ontario Ridings

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (CP)—A jovial, relaxed John Diefenbaker started a two-day hop over two western Ontario ridings Wednesday, shaking hands, sightseeing and lingering to chat at every opportunity.

The leader of the Opposition chatted with more than 1,500 high school students in Wallaceburg and nearby Dresden, visited Uncle Tom's cabin, talked business with Lambton and Kent County Progressive Conservatives and addressed a public meeting here.

Before leaving London, Ont., Mr. Diefenbaker described as "totally inadequate" the division of payments to Canada's provinces as a result of the federal-provincial conference.

Sea Limit Near Solution

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada and the U.S. Wednesday made what External Affairs Minister Paul Martin described as "considerable progress" in their talks on the proposed Canadian 12-mile coastal fisheries boundary and agreed to hold another round of talks at Ottawa next month.

Martin said the Ottawa meeting — third on this subject — likely will be the final one and that the two countries will reach a "consensus" on the issue.

Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud, who accompanied him, agreed that "good progress" had been made and that "we are coming to some agreement on this." However, he later asked at a press conference that the word "agreement" be changed to "understanding."

NO STATEMENT

The U.S. issued no formal statement on the conference. However, a state department official said the U.S. still reserves its support of a three-mile fisheries boundary and expressed concern about continued Canadian insistence that Hudson Bay is an internal Canadian waterway.

RECOGNIZED

The U.S. maintains that Hudson Bay is part of the high seas with the exception of a recognized three-mile Canadian territorial boundary.

Martin told reporters that when talks with the U.S. are completed, Canada will hold discussions with France on its fishery treaty rights in Canadian waters and then discuss historic fishing rights claimed by Spain, Portugal, Norway, Denmark and Italy.

Robichaud added that the Soviet Union is not being invited to participate in these discussions because Canada does not consider the Soviet Union has any historic fishing rights in Canadian waters.

Martin and Robichaud emphasized that Canada intends to implement the 12-mile limit as planned next May for fishing purposes.

Jury: Don't Jump To Conclusions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Harold McInnes warned an assize court jury Wednesday not to jump to any conclusions following the testimony of an RCMP officer in a non-capital murder trial.

Const. Robert McLeod told the court the accused, Mrs. Olive Rustad, had once told him: "If we could only get rid of Frank and the old lady, everything would be okay."

Mrs. Rustad is charged with the June 10, 1960, beating death of her 80-year-old mother-in-law, Mrs. Thirne Rustad.

Const. McLeod said the accused appeared at the police station two months before the slaying in connection with a theft at her home, and discussed her marital problems with him.

He said Mrs. Rustad accused Frank Rustad, another son of the dead woman, of seeking to gain control of a business venture operated by her husband.

It was at the conclusion of her visit she made the remark, he said.

You Can't Rush Christmas —As Sailors Find Out

Two sailors who tried to rush the Christmas season ended up in the hands of the shore patrol Tuesday night.

The two were found stealing light bulbs from the Christmas trees in the 700 block Yates Street, and were quickly trundled off under lock and key.

Upset CNR Rights Truckers Ask B.C.

A delegation from the Automotive Transport Association that has always been the railway's ally has asked the provincial cabinet to upset a Public Utilities Commission decision which gave hauling rights to a subsidiary of the CNR.

The ruling also awarded the subsidiary, Canadian National Transportation Ltd., a motor carrier licence to haul freight and express between Vancouver and the B.C. Interior.

FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

The transport association contends the service, already in operation, constitutes unfair competition in that the railway enjoys federal subsidies.

The delegation also argued that several independent truckers were providing adequate service along the routes involved: between Vancouver and Kamloops, Kamloops and Penticton, Kamloops and Blue River, and Prince George and Smithers.

Three of the independent truckers joined the ATA in the cabinet appeal.

CN Transportation has argued the truck lines all parallel CNR tracks and are a substitution to preserve business that has always been the railway's.

The trucking service had been designed to compensate for elimination of one transcontinental train a day into Vancouver. The switch to road hauling was expected to save the railway $1,500,000 a year.

Neither side had any comment on the cabinet talks.

The truckers say their appeal is only part of a Canada-wide struggle against government-owned trucking firms.

Hebenton NHL's 'Iron Man' After 581 Consecutive Games

GP	W	L	T	P	A	Pts
Chicago	22	11	7	4	0	26
Toronto	22	11	7	4	0	26
Montreal	22	11	7	4	0	26
Detroit	22	11	7	4	0	26
New York	22	11	7	4	0	26
Boston	22	11	7	4	0	26

Last night's scores: Montreal 6 at Toronto 3, Boston 2 at Chicago 2.

Next games tonight: New York at Montreal, Boston at Detroit.

Andy Hebenton, who missed his first chance at the National Hockey League because Montreal Canadiens thought he was injury prone, last night set an NHL record for consecutive league games played.

The 34-year-old former Victoria Cougar star, now with Boston Bruins after eight seasons with New York Rangers, played in his 581st consecutive game last night while Bruins were playing to a 2-2 tie with the Black Hawks in Chicago. He thus erased the old mark of 580 set by Detroit's Johnny Wilson—not a bad record for a man who wasn't supposed to be of NHL stature.

It was 13 years ago that the Winnipeg native turned professional with Canadiens. But at training camp he tore ligaments in his right knee, and his NHL chance was gone.

"I guess Canadiens felt I would have chronic knee trouble," Hebenton says. "They sent me down to the minors and I missed 30 games there, but the knee hasn't bothered me since."

MISSES THREE

Apparently not. Late in the 1951-52 season with Cougars, Hebenton missed three games with a knee injury. Then he played in the next 215 consecutive Cougar games. Add 10 WHL and 22 NHL playoff games, and Hebenton has now played 828 consecutive games of professional hockey.

He got his NHL chance because Muzz Patrick was willing to gamble on a 26-year-old rookie. Patrick, in his first deal as Ranger general manager, paid Cougars $10,000 for Hebenton, who repaid him with 177 goals over eight seasons and won the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship and ability in 1957-58.

FEW PENALTIES

In the 581 games, Hebenton has served only 75 minutes in penalties.

Bruins drafted Hebenton from the Rangers at the end of last season for his defensive ability and for penalty-killing chores.

A victory last night would have made the evening complete, but Chicago's Bobby Hull spoiled that part of it.

scoring with 31 seconds left in the third period to give Hawks the tie and their 13th straight undefeated game at home.

Billy Hay, who scored only 12 goals all last season, got his 12th goal for Hawks and Dean Prentice and Murray Dean scored for Bruins.

Reuss left Hawks 10 points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, who shut out Montreal Canadiens, 3-0, in Toronto to move past them into second place.

Goalie Don Simmons collected the first shutout by a Leaf netminder this year, making 26 saves and getting the benefit of a strong defence. Bob Baun, Dick Duff and Allan Stanley handled the scoring. Canadiens had to play without John Ferguson, Bill Hicke and Henri Richard, all out with injuries.

From Andy

'Thanks, Victoria'

"Tell everybody thanks. It was a wonderful thing for them to do."

Andy Hebenton, who had just set a National Hockey League record of 581 games, spoke to The Daily Colonist by telephone from Chicago last night. And the first thing he wanted to do was thank the approximately 300 fans from Victoria who sent congratulatory telegrams.

A total of 385 fans who remembered Hebenton in his five seasons with Victoria Cougars put their names on one special telegram, and dozens of others sent personal good wishes. He makes his off-season home here.

"I got them this afternoon," Hebenton said. "It was wonderful."

Since the night of Oct. 7, 1953, when he made his first NHL start with New York Rangers, there have been several occasions when Hebenton could have sat out a game.

"Once a couple of years ago I got hit in the eye with a stick in a Wednesday night game, he told the Colonist, and we were due to play the next night."

"All day Thursday the eye was closed tight, but just before game time we got some drops in it and I was able to play."

"Then three years ago I lost seven teeth in a week—

ANDY HEBENTON ... just keeps going

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

JUST A THOUGHT: It may sound a bit prudish but the thought struck more than one curler when it was announced that a Canadian mixed rink championship would be held annually starting this season that it should have been designated for all rinks be made up of man and wife combinations.

The thinking is, and there is a point there, that both husbands and wives will get rather coolly the thought of either going away on a mixed curling junket without the other.

It's something which is quite probable. In many instances, only one member of the family curls. In other instances one member may not have sufficient ability to be considered for a Canada-wide competition. Making it for husband-wife combinations would, of course, prevent some curler from entering but there should be no rub there. I'm inclined to agree that a mixed family championship might have been a better idea.

In any case, it should prove to be a popular event although mixed curling on a regular basis has so far not been popular in Victoria. It is extremely popular in the East, particularly in Ontario, and with the steady growth of family clubs is becoming more and more popular elsewhere.

THERE IS SO ONE: Curlers would do well to note that at the recent Grey Cup bonspiel in Vancouver there was more comment about a curler doing the right thing than about any other curling action.

Youngster Barry Meyer, playing for Ian Wood, came up with a beautiful clutch draw during a game but after his sweepers had nestled his rock behind cover, Wood came down and removed it, explaining that he had fouled at the hog line.

It was almost a first in curling, and so moved one curler veteran that he went over to shake Meyer's hand.

MANY WITH HOPES: At least 21 rinks will enter the British Columbia playdowns at the club level in the Victoria area.

Entries are complete at the Victoria Curling Club, where 11 rinks will play a double-draw knockout, and at Esquimalt Municipal Centre, where eight rinks tee off Saturday in a round-robin playoff. At Allan's Curling Club, Al Mooney and Vern Meyer have entered rinks but the deadline has not yet passed.

At the VCC, defending champion Don Moss will have two changes, Lyle Garraway and Laurie Perlette taking over on the front end from Mel McClure and Kirby Mooney. Deke Marshall remains as vice-skip.

Tony Gutsook, 1958 provincial champion, goes with Jim Jackson, Gary Leibel and Corky Davies and Ken Sturrock, club champion two years back, has Ralph Schmidt, Dick Fisher and Gordon McIntyre.

Keith Dagg is in with Les Brice, Bud Taylor and Barry Harvey. Then there is Steve Hayhurst with Doug Weir, Bill Wilkinson and Elmer Hoffman and Bob McIntosh with Norm Richardson, K. A. Petch and O. J. Powell and Bennett Camp with Don Auld, Allan Paul and H. Mattern.

Don Matheson, Gordie Moore, Earl McBride and Dr. J. M. Dickout are the other entrants. Rink personnel was not available last night.

At Esquimalt, rinks have been entered by Lyle Gordon, Dave Haywood, Bob Gray, Howie Ward, Jack Moir, Alex Moore, Wes Young and Al Thompson.

In ladies' playdowns at the VCC, Flora Martin and Judy Leibel lead the six-rink round-robin series with 2-0 records. Marg Sturrock and Mary Beattie are 1-1 and Marg Inglis and Kay Trevelyan 0-2. The afternoon ladies' group shows Rene Robbins in front at 3-0, Edith Leach and Doris Fraser are 2-1, Joan Turner 2-2, Norah Dunstan 1-2 and Ruth Jackson and Elsie O'Dell 1-3.

At Allan's, Helen Emrick looks as the only entry and will represent that club unless some one else care to challenge. Nothing has been heard from Esquimalt's distaff side.

PLAYOFF RINKS BEST: The ladies' Grey Cup bonspiel Nanaimo Curling Club over the weekend found two of Nanaimo's playoff rinks meeting in the final with Frankie Serjant taking top honors by besting Marg Fuller.

Curling with the winning skip were Edna Quinney, Lavina Chateleine and Evelyn Provost. With Mrs. Fuller were Audrey Thompson, Jessie Whitlam and Dot Lindsay. Beaten semi-finalists in "A" event were Irene Schroh of Nanaimo and Evelyn Stitzaker of Port Alberni.

Lil Grandage of Courtney defeated Ethel McGilivray of Nanaimo in "B" event with Marie Clift and Agnes Thlen of Nanaimo the beaten semi-finalists. Doris Fries of Nanaimo won "C" event with Marg Johnston second, Audra Malpass third and Linda Lowe fourth. All are from Nanaimo.

EXTRA END: At Nanaimo, British Columbia entries have received from Don MacLeod, Gene Koster, Glen Phillips, Harry Shychka, Bob Dean and Bill Goad and it appears three or four more rinks will be entered. . . . At Duncan, Glen Harper is being challenged by Fred Duncan, Ben McNeil, the Barber and Mike Willis. . . . At Port Alberni, the entry list so far includes Harry Stitzaker, Jim Marston, Bill Woods, Wayne Reid, Carmen Arthur, Ed Price, Cyril Bell and Don Whyte. . . . Glen Harper repeated his brier win of last March over Ernie Richardson during Grey Cup week, defeating the Canadian champion, 11-9, in an exhibition game at the UBC rink. In a second game, Hec Gervais of Edmonton outscored Jim Shields of Calgary, 12-7. . . . A 16-rink bonspiel for $200 in cash is set for Allan's Curling Club on Saturday, Dec. 14. The winning rink will get $100, the defeated finalist and the winner of the second event $50 each. Ray Allan reports that Hewie Christopherson of Vancouver and Glen Harper will be among the entries. . . . Jack Inglis, Ken Sturrock and Don Moss have entered rinks at the VCC for club playdowns in the new mixed rinks Canadian championship and Warren Paul of the Alberni Valley CC report that four or five entries are expected there.

Council to Discuss December Athletics

By ROBIN JEFFREY

The Athletic Council at the University of Victoria has decided to discuss with the Athletic Board the controversial no-athletics during December rule.

The Athletic Board, composed of three faculty members and three students, sets policy for the Athletic Council.

Members of the council are divided in their personal opinions concerning the rule, but all agree that discussion with the board will help clear the air.

As the rule stands now, no university athletic facilities may be used in December or April. Neither are university teams allowed to play in these months.

It is doubtful if any major concession will come from the board, but it is hoped that students may be granted permission to use the gymnasium after exams in December.

Any new ruling, however, will not come into effect this year.

Peter Juelsberg, Colin Crisp and John Creighton led the

The club won a four-team tourney at Royal Roads against UBC, Royal Roads, and Shawigan Lake School by a 10-8 margin.

Accompanying the prestige was the Inter-University Squash Club Cup, awarded for the first time by the B.C. Squash Racquets Association.

Next outing for the squash players is in January, when another tournament is planned.

At the halfway point of the university curling year, the David Jones rink has taken top spot in the league standings with six straight victories. Jones' undefeated streak now extends over 18 months of curling.

Close behind Jones and also undefeated is a rink skippered by Arnold Boomhower. And right behind Boomhower pants Frank Varga with one defeat. Varga was Jones' third last year.

Tied for fourth place are Ken Lutz and Corky McCoy, quodale.

Last weekend was a tough one for university judo enthusiasts who competed in the Vancouver Island Closed Tournament in Nanaimo.

Most of the university contingent were eliminated early in the proceedings, chiefly because they were matched against opponents holding higher grades of belts.

Best performance for the university was made by Richard Crossley, who won two matches, one of them against a blue belt. A blue belt is one of the loftier rankings in the judo hierarchy.

Crossley lost to George Bombardier, the eventual meet winner.

Skrien Wooing Oregon Hotshot

VANCOUVER (CP) —

B.C. Lions' coach Dave Skrien is in Eugene, Ore., with an endearing smile on his face and a wallet in his hand talking to Mel Renfro, a do-it-all halfback with the University of Oregon.

Renfro is a prime signing target for the Lions—but also the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League and the Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

Skrien left for Eugene Tuesday when he heard that Dallas had claimed Renfro as their second choice in the NFL draft. Initially they claimed him in the first round, hesitated and picked him up in the second round.

Football experts feel that Renfro wouldn't give Dallas a firm commitment so they wouldn't risk their first choice on him.

ALL CLAIMED

Lions' general manager Herb Capozzi said that of the 12 U.S. college players the team had on its signing list, "almost all were claimed in the 20 rounds of the NFL draft and all but one was claimed in the AFL draft."

Capozzi said that no players on the Lions' list have yet been signed by American professional teams.

LAURIE CARROLL ... resigns

Victoria Club Pro Resigns Position

Laurie Carroll has tendered his resignation as professional at the Victoria Golf Club, and it has been accepted with regret by the club's executive committee.

A former Vancouver Island Match Play champion, Laurie succeeded Fiol Taylor at the Oak Bay course nearly five years ago, and before that he was assistant professional for a number of years.

Carroll has asked to be relieved of his post by the end of the year, but the club has suggested that the time limit might be left more flexible in the interests of either or both parties.

It is understood that Victoria Golf Club will advertise for a new professional both in Canada and Great Britain through the Professional Golfing Associations of those countries.

Roy Chappell, who has been assistant to Laurie Carroll for a number of years is not employed by the club, has been asked to continue to serve in his present capacity in the interim period until the appointment of the new professional.

This is the second professional vacancy among Victoria golf clubs. Less than two months ago Walter Gravin tendered his resignation at Uplands, and that club is at present in the process of finding his successor.

One of several applicants for the Uplands job is Carroll.

VIEW OF SPORT

By Red Smith

Roger Thomas Staubach, 21, of Cincinnati, O., plays football for the United States Naval Academy. This is bad for Army.

As a rookie quarterback last year, unfamiliar with the yips and flutters that can overwhelm a 20-year-old playing his first Army-Navy game before 100,000 spectators, Staubach ran for two touchdowns and passed for two more in a 34-14 Navy victory. Very bad for Army.

He is a football player of greater experience now, but not enough experience from Army's point of view because he is still only a junior and will be back next year. Very, very bad for Army.

Because Staubach plays for Navy, the salty sons of Annapolis confidently expect to whack Army for the fifth time in a row Saturday in Philadelphia Stadium. Maybe they will. Maybe. Maybe.

Staubach is not the first athlete of exceptional ability to play in an Army-Navy game. If he should find himself plucked up by the eyeballs on Saturday, dashed to the earth and coarsely trampled, he would not be the first to suffer so. It is astonishing how great a part emotion plays in a purely physical game.

Three years ago Navy had another kid nobody could whip, a senior named Joe Bellino. As a junior he had run 15 and 46 yards for touchdowns in the first eight minutes, spreading an abomination of desolation. Demoralized Army yielded up the largest score Navy has made in 63 meetings, 63 points to 12.

Better Than It Was

Now in 1960, Bellino had led Navy to eight victories in nine games. Army's record of six victories, two defeats, and one tie looked better than it was; the only team of stature West Point had beaten was Syracuse.

Starting with a 58-yard kick return, the only Navy back who ever scored three touchdowns in a game against Army sent Navy off to a lead of 17-0 in the first half. It looked so easy it was sad.

In the third quarter Army went 88 yards for a touchdown. In the fourth the Cadets pushed over another six points. With West Point trailing by only five points, Army's Al Rushatz recovered a fumble by Bellino on the Navy 17. It took a pass interception by Bellino in the closing seconds to preserve Navy's victory.

There have been so many like this that it makes no sense at all to handicap these rivals on form.

There was the 1950 game when Army had won eight for eight and Navy had taken it on the eye six times eight starts. That was the year a job named Bob Zastrow tore 'em up, scoring 12 points for Annapolis and two for West Point on a safety as the Midshipmen won, 14-2.

The following summer, the Army team was wiped out by the so-called cribbing scandal at West Point. In what must be the swiftest rebuilding project on record, Red Blak assembled a winner in two years. By 1953 he had a team that smashed Navy, 20-7, and walked off with the championship of the East.

Nothing's Impossible

The thing to remember is that neither institution has a patent on the impossible. In 1948 Navy shaped up in Philadelphia with a losing streak of 13 in a row. In eight straight defeats that season, the Midshipmen had scored 56 points against 208. Unbeaten in eight games, Army had 273 points to 68.

Nobody could make odds on such a mismatch. So Navy came from behind three times for a 21-21 tie.

Most memorable of all, perhaps, was the 1946 game, the last start for Army's million-dollar backfield of Blanchard, Davis, Tucker and Rowan. In three seasons this team had played 26 games without defeat, had a scoreless tie with Notre Dame, and had shut out the opposition 13 times. The point score was 1,158 to 143.

Navy had played eight games that year and simply smashed Villanova, 7-0, as a preamble to seven straight defeats. Go ahead, make a price on that one.

Army took a lead of 21 to 6. Navy scored six points in the third quarter and six more in the fourth, making it 21-18. Starting from their own 33, the men from Annapolis got to Army's 3-yard line with a minute and 25 seconds left.

Lynn Chewing bucked twice and was stopped twice. With 30 seconds left, the Navy coach, Tom Hamilton, took a five-yard penalty for stopping the clock by running

Liverpool May Suffer For Actions of Fans

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—British soccer authorities are going to get tough with the tough guys who are a growing menace at league games.

Just what action they will take hasn't been decided but league president Joe Richards says the few "are bringing shame to soccer throughout the country" and something must be done about it.

He will meet soon with officials of the Football Association and says whatever action is decided it will be "more strenuous than merely telling clubs to post notices warning spectators about their behavior."

But they would prefer to stop short of suspending certain playing fields from action, a tactic that worked wonders several years ago.

The trouble started months ago when a few disgruntled fans threw things at players and referees. Since then things have gone from bad to worse.

PLAYERS ATTACKED

Visiting players and officials have been attacked, bricks have been thrown through their dressing-room windows, fights have broken out among spectators and railway cars taking fans to and from games have been wrecked.

The worst trouble spot has been Liverpool, home of Liverpool and Everton.

The whole thing came to a head recently with two cases in which fans were hurt at players. No one was injured but in none of these incidents was an offender charged.

Now officials of the league, the FA and some sports writers have charged that it is apathy on the part of other fans that has made the job of the police almost impossible.

They claim fans should put the finger on the culprits, cooperate with police and be willing to come forward to give evidence.

In one of the dirt-throwing incidents at Leyton police picked up a man but no action was taken because none of the nearby fans would make statements.

FANS ORGANIZE

"In short," wrote Peter Lorenzo of The Daily Herald, "the average British soccer fan will not accept responsibility, civil responsibility."

Eventually, Lorenzo says, the only alternative will be to close Leyton field and "thousands of innocents will be punished in order to strike home at the one or two louts who seem more interested in blood than watching football."

Richards has expressed support for "vigilante committees" among fans and already the National Federation of Supporters' Clubs has called for "organized patrols of supporters to mingle with the crowds, collar trouble-makers and hand them over to the police."

It was more than two years ago that the Football Association closed for two weeks the grounds at Plymouth and Gillingham after similar, but much less violent, cases of hooliganism.

There has been no trouble in these two centres since.

CURLING CAPSULES

By ERNIE RICHARDSON

When you have completed the tour of positions on a team (or rink), and picked up considerable experience in club matches and open bonspiels you are in the class of the expert curler.

The expert has usually settled into a most effective delivery, is a capable shotmaker and a good judge of weight. Much of this knowledge has come from constant play in tough competition and a close study of the game.

PART OF GAME

There is a part of the game, however, that is learned from general experience of the skip, together with exchanging ideas with members of his team. This is the strategy of curling.

Strategy is the most important factor in all bonspiel play and it is particularly valuable in all championship competitions. The stronger the opposition the more valuable the proper strategy becomes.

NO RULES

There are no hard and fast rules for strategy and it is a difficult part of curling to explain. It involves the end being played, the score and which side has the lead, the tricks of the ice, how the members of your rink are playing, and the effectiveness of the opposition. All these points are a part of curling strategy.

Each skip must be able to direct his rink to best advantage in each situation of each game and be alert to detect those advantages at all times.

GREAT VALUE

Getting the jump on your opponent is of great value in any game. The two basic shots in curling—the draw and the take-out—are the offensive and defensive weapons of a skip. The secret is to try and force your opponent to play the style of game you play best.

If you can force your opponent to hit then you have them on the defensive. The hit or take-out shot is an attempt to cut down the advantage of the opposition, while the draw is the shot that forces your opponent to hit.

LET HIM MISS

The result is that if you have last rock on the end, your draw shot should be played on the tee line, or in front of it. From then on it's a question of playing for your opponent to miss then take full advantage. If you happen to be the one who misses, you are forced on the defensive and the challenge is yours.

The ability to adjust to the ever-changing situations that arise in a curling match is the mark of an expert strategist and a skilful curler. With such a skip, a team that possesses a variety of shots and the determination to overcome obstacles will be hard to beat in any competition.

Quebec's Cry Heard By French — at Last

French reaction to Quebec's nationalist movement is described in this column by Alan Harvey, Montreal correspondent of The Canadian Press.

By ALAN HARVEY

PARIS (CP) — Echoes of Quebec's new nationalism are emerging in France.

The debate is just beginning. For long, France has regarded her distant offspring with a detached eye. Links of blood and language were dismissed as folklore.

Now attitudes are changing. Some manifestations:

● Three young Montreal men, Bernard Cloutier, Pierre Gravel and Jacques Morin, have set up a Paris-based committee to "internationalize" the independence movement.

Three Words

● Persons unknown painted Vive Quebec Libre around the Place de la Concorde, where Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette waited for the guillotine.

● The "revolution" is attracting attention in French newspapers. One book has appeared, another is in preparation.

"Separatism is the only thing that interests French papers," sadly acknowledged a Montrealer who opposes independence.

Hyde Park

So hot is the gospel among French-Canadian students abroad that one intense young man from Quebec City spread the separatist message at famed Speaker's Corner in London's Hyde Park.

Heating a Quebec flag atop a borrowed umbrella, the student harangued a predominantly English crowd for three hours, mostly in English. Only hecklers were an irate Toronto nurse and three soldiers from Western Canada.

Viewed from Paris, separatism—or independence as they prefer to say—is a complex issue.

Misleading

It would be misleading to suggest Quebec's heart-cry is arousing passionate interest abroad. It is just starting to scratch the surface.

Rooted in her bountiful soil, ingrained and egocentric, preoccupied with "la bonne chère," pleasure of the table, France the feeding mother is largely indifferent to her former colony. Schoolbooks concentrate on the United States; Canada is known largely as a land of shiny red apples, maple syrup and a few acres of snow.

Among Canadians outside Quebec, new and old France are considered naturally close.

New Type

Yet the "Canadien" has never forgotten the attitudes of early French nobles and officers. He feels he has created a North American "type," distinct from the French. He often feels greater affinity for Anglo-Saxon institutions and temperaments.

He is repelled by French political instability and he nurtures a wound about language. His accent is sometimes mocked by Parisians—who can be just as patronizing to Normans or Alsacians—and his habit of saying "plancher" instead of "étage" to designate a hotel floor, or storey, is similarly derided.

Sometimes

"The bonds between us are sometimes more romantic than real," several students agreed.

Few Frenchmen dispute the point. Despite all the grudging after-dinner speeches, despite occasional fillips to French nationalism offered by Quebec, there has existed a tendency particularly in left-centre political circles to portray Montreal's province as a citadel of reaction, dominated by an all-powerful Catholic Church.

Quebec's seething self-examination may cause reappraisal. Some Frenchmen are taking an interest.

On Grant

On sale in Paris is a book, Revolution in Quebec, written by Jean Cathelin and his wife Gabrielle Gray, who toured Canada from coast to coast in 1960-61 on a $2,000 grant from the Canada Council.

Black-bearded, lean and utterly serious, Cathelin is of the moderate left. Through the book's pages of travelogue and description ripples a strong undercurrent of sympathy for Quebec aspirations.

"I feel sick at heart for these people," Cathelin told me in the cosy lobby of a Champs Elysees hotel.

Hope Voiced

Something of an Anglophile, Cathelin hopes a Quebec endowed with greater autonomy—not necessarily complete independence—would remain in the Commonwealth.

"Formerly French-Canadian nationalism was directed against England," said Cathelin. "The new nationalism is not against England, but contains an element of Latin and European striving."

"It is a battle for a European conception of life against

Would Help

Greater autonomy would not necessarily involve the breakup of Canada, but would help Canada as a whole extricate herself from the meshes of America.

Cathelin produced a letter from General de Gaulle in which the French president thanked him for sending a copy of the book, from which de Gaulle said he would derive benefit. Cathelin agreed the letter's "subliminal" wording did not indicate the general has suddenly become a supporter of separatism.

Own Motives

Anyway, the writer added with a smile, de Gaulle would probably support separatism from motives of French national interest rather than out of sympathy for Quebec.

Another author who thinks Quebec needs greater liberty in seeking her true personality and vocation is Bernard Cabanes, a slender, well-informed centre-left journalist who argues, in a book to be published shortly, that Quebec and the rest of Canada are like Siamese twins—the cord must be broken if they are to be true to themselves.

Eternal Tie

"They have different jobs and they cannot do them if they are forever roped together," said Cabanes, who says he writes from "morning to night."

His main newspaper is Le Parisien Libere, owned by a wealthy right-wing publisher but read principally in the Communist-dominated "Red belt" suburbs of Paris.

It was an odd experience for a reporter from English Canada to listen to Cabanes speaking calmly about the possibilities of a freer Quebec.

Intermediary

As Maurice Chevalier danced an improbable twist with long-legged Jeanmaire on a television screen in the newspaper canteen where we met, Cabanes visualized Quebec acting as intermediary between the U.S. and Europe; the U.S. and Latin America; the developed world and the underdeveloped countries in Africa and Asia.

He acknowledged Quebec might have less sympathy with France than, for example, with Scandinavian countries and Ireland.

A Natural

Quebec would be a natural associate of the Common Market, because of her mineral wealth, whereas Ontario had more obvious economic links with the U.S.

"A state that would be at once North America and at the same time an associate of the Common Market would be the natural centre of the Atlantic community," said Cabanes. "Quebec City would provide a natural capital for such a community."

Accused Asks Break But Crossroads Past

"I feel I'm at the crossroads of my life, and I'm asking for a break," a man told Magistrate William Ouler in city magistrate's court yesterday.

Robert Ronald Smith of Vancouver pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft from McGill and Orme, 1139 Yates, Nov. 5, and possession of narcotics.

"I know my record is bad," said Smith. "I have come out of prison before with determination and have worked for over a year, but this time I feel I'm at the crossroads of my life, and I'm asking for a break."

"I haven't had much of a life since I was eight years old," he added, "and I don't want to go back to the penitentiary."

"I think you have passed the crossroads," said Magistrate Ouler. "I have taken everything into consideration, and I must sentence you to prison. If you require treatment for your affliction, I have no doubt you will get it."

(Smith is a narcotics user.) Smith was sentenced to three years' imprisonment on each of two charges. The sentences will run concurrently.

Softwood Talks Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States-Canadian discussions of softwood lumber industry problems have been postponed indefinitely.

A two-day meeting had been scheduled to open in Washington Monday.

Government sources said the postponement was by "mutual agreement" to allow time for additional preparation on both sides.

DISSATISFIED

A lumber industry source said U.S. industry representatives were dissatisfied with the tentative agenda prepared for the meeting by the state department because it did not allow for discussion of possible solutions.

Imposition of import quotas was suggested recently by a group of more than 100 congressmen from lumber producing states as one means of protecting domestic lumber producers from loss of markets to Canadian imports.

Are you the one person in three who might benefit from a low-cost Seaboard Mortgage Loan?

Borrow up to $10,000- as long as 10 years

What is a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? It is a low-cost loan for people who own, or are in the process of buying a home. The money you have invested in your property is excellent collateral for a Seaboard Mortgage Loan. And this means you get one of the lowest rates of interest to be found anywhere, because real estate offers such excellent security. A Seaboard Mortgage Loan has the added advantage of letting you borrow up to 80% of the value of your property, as compared to approximately 66% for most conventional mortgages.

When should you take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? Only when it's to your advantage. This can be worked out between you and your Seaboard manager. You and he may find that a Seaboard Mortgage Loan can help you, as it has other people:

- To reduce your monthly mortgage payments.
- To pay off high-cost charge accounts and loans for furniture, car, clothing, etc. Often articles which you think you are buying at a saving are actually costing you an unnecessarily high price because of the variety of service and interest charges.
- To put your children through university or to make home improvements.
- To help you purchase a new or older home if you are having difficulty in raising the necessary mortgage money.
- To assist you in selling your home if a prospective buyer has difficulty in raising cash to your mortgage.

How much can you borrow? You can take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan up to $10,000 or 80% of the fair valuation of your home. What's more, you can take up to 10 years to repay, with monthly payments planned to fit your budget and leave you with extra cash each month.

Phone or write for all the details about the low-cost Seaboard mortgage loan. Or, better still, call in for a personal interview with your Seaboard manager. Evening appointments can be arranged.

How does this special plan work? Here is an example of how a Seaboard Mortgage Loan can reduce your total monthly payments and save you money:

FILE NO. 32-4709 HOUSE MARKET VALUE $12,500
Present Obligations	Present Monthly Payments
1st mortgage — $3,200.....	$ 70
Personal loan — 900.....	42
Balance on auto — 700.....	50
Total .....	$162 per mo.
Extra Money Required 500
Total Obligations .....	$5,300
New monthly payments with a Seaboard Mortgage Loan—$80 per month for 120 months at approximately 12% a year.

Total obligations consolidated into one Seaboard Mortgage Loan reduce monthly payments from $162 to $80—a 50% reduction in monthly payments, or $82 extra in your pocket each month.

What special benefits do you receive from dealing with Seaboard?

- Your contract can be renegotiated anytime.
- Special low-cost life insurance available that pays your contract in full in event of death.
- Contract can be repaid ahead of schedule at no extra cost.
- No hidden charges—no brokerage fees.
- No "balance" or "balloon payments".
- Minimum registration, appraisal and legal fees.
- All terms fully explained so that you completely understand your contract.
- Interest rates computed monthly on unpaid balance—reducing interest on each payment.
- Seaboard's years of experience in the mortgage loan business.

Speaker's Fourth

Historic Vote In Ottawa Breaks Tie

OTTAWA (CP) — For the fourth time since Confederation, the Speaker of the House of Commons was called upon to cast a deciding vote Wednesday.

In doing so, Speaker Alan Macnaughton upheld his own ruling that Gilles Goggin (Creditiste-Lapointe) had no right to involve the Commons in a dispute that occurred earlier in the day in the Commons mines committee.

COMBINATION

When Speaker Macnaughton's ruling was challenged, the MPs were polled individually on whether they supported the Speaker. The Progressive Conservative, NDP, Social Credit and Creditiste members combined against the governing Liberals.

The outcome, announced from the clerk's table after a recalculation of the division list of MPs, was 106 to 106. Speaker Macnaughton then declared his ruling sustained.

THREE TIMES

Parliamentary authorities said the effect of Speaker Macnaughton's declaration was to cast the deciding vote. This had occurred only three times before — in 1870, 1889 and 1925. The vote eliminated Mr. Goggin's attempt to win Commons support for a motion instructing the mines committee to discuss the boundaries between the Northwest Territories and the provinces at its current hearings.

His motion was a follow-up to a committee hearing earlier in the day at which Mr. Goggin attempted to move a motion that the resources ministers of Ontario and Quebec be summoned.

No Sabotage, MPs Told

Glass-in-the-Wheat Stories 'Magnified'

OTTAWA (CP) — Stories about glass in wheat shipments to Russia have been magnified, Transport Minister McElraith said Wednesday in the Commons, with apologies for the pun.

He said in reply to a series of opposition questions that there has been no suggestion of sabotage or of a conspiracy.

The matter appeared one of pure carelessness by persons who had to work in dusty conditions. Soft drink concessions on wheat-shipping docks had been ordered to switch to paper cups from bottles.

Justice Minister Chevrier said in reply to Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) that there is no indication to indicate industrial sabotage by the FLQ (Front de Liberation Quebecois).

Mr. McElraith added that glass has been found in two boxcars from Ontario points, one of them a shipment of soy beans.

Senators Block Bid To Scuttle Tax Plan

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate, in one of its rare recorded votes, turned aside Wednesday an Opposition attempt to scuttle one of Finance Minister Gordon's major tax proposals. Then it passed the last of the June 12 budget legislation.

The vote was 38 Liberals to 23 Conservatives on a motion by Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC — Ontario), former trade minister, to kill a proposal which he said would discourage the flow of American investment capital into Canada.

Liberal senators who spoke against the same tax proposal in committee Tuesday rallied to the government's support after the long and sometimes heated debate in the Senate.

The proposal gives a tax break to companies offering 25 per cent of their stock for Canadian ownership. Senator McCutcheon said this meant that foreign companies would be penalized for their Canadian operations and that some Canadian firms, with big operations abroad, might be damaged.

"This is bad legislation and should not be approved by this chamber," Senator McCutcheon said. "This is an opportunity for this chamber to justify its existence as the chamber of sober second thought. We cannot afford to take the risk of the repercussions which might follow."

Eye Malady Threat To Bob Hope Tour

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Glib comedian Bob Hope disclosed yesterday he will undergo treatment for a blood clot in his left eye this weekend which may cancel his famed annual Christmas tour of U.S. military bases abroad.

Hope, subdued and devoid of wisecracks, said he will enter Children's Hospital in San Francisco today and remain there four or five days.

Hope said a "new photo-coagulation process" will be used on the clot that endangered the sight of his left eye four years ago and has caused fuzziness of vision recently.

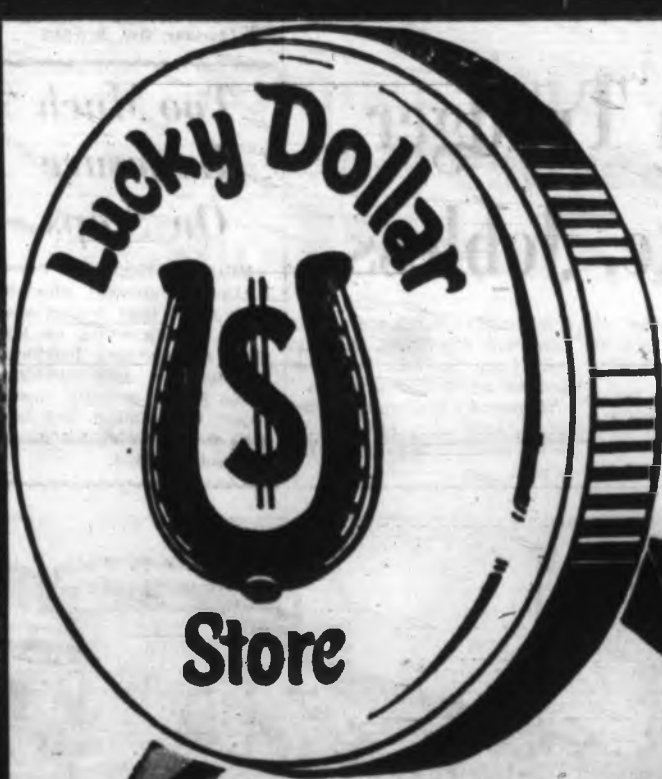

When asked if he would make the Christmas trip this year, Hope said, "It all depends."

A medical spokesman for Hope described the "photo coagulation" treatment.

"It's shining a very bright light into the eye which is focussed on the blood clot and coagulates it."

When a tight scar forms, the blood vessel will be permanently closed.

Cross-Canada Trudger Ends Up Broke, Jobless

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—George Whitbread's enthusiasm about having walked 5,100 miles across Canada on the new Trans-Canada Highway apparently is not shared by people here.

The 51-year-old Torontonian who arrived here two weeks ago, says he expected some recognition of his feat, if only some means of transportation back to Toronto or a job in St. John's.

WELFARE HELP

He is destitute and is living temporarily in quarters provided by the welfare department.

"I was offered a job by the welfare people with a construction company, but it turned out to be eight miles out of town. I have no money and the only way I could get to work and back would be by walking 16 miles a day."

NOT POSSIBLE

Whitbread says he was told by the welfare department transportation might be arranged by train to Toronto, but he has since learned this will not be possible.

Earlier in the week, Whitbread presented Premier Smallwood with money and 30 letters from all parts of Canada, written by mayors and other civic leaders.

SMALLWOOD LETTER

He has a letter from Premier Smallwood to be presented to Premier Bennett if he should return to B.C.

"I don't think the letter will ever be delivered—at least not by me—it's just not worth it."

Whitbread blames his failure to gain recognition on the fact he wasn't sponsored.

"If I had someone behind me, I might have come out of this thing with something. As it is now, I am not only $1,200 behind but am broke and jobless."

Whitbread's welfare-provided lodging ends today and he says he has nowhere to go except the streets.

Ready for New Year Rush

Mailboxes in Tokyo resemble old-fashioned coal furnaces, or maybe big sewer tile. These are some of 550 new ones being installed, not for Christmas rush, but for New Year's rush. Postal authorities expect to deliver some 940 million New Year's cards, an increase of 70 million.

Foresters with Guns Count Chopping Days

WINCHESTER, England (UPI)—With only 20 chopping days left until Christmas, foresters armed with shotguns and two-way radios are guarding 1,500 square miles of Christmas trees.

The area—the New Forest—is Britain's prime area for Christmas trees and officials said they want to protect the trees from thieves until they can be cut down and shipped to market.

Sex Slaying Charge

Police Testimony Conflicts on Dion

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Conflicting testimony by provincial police officers and the introduction of Leopold Dion's criminal record highlighted the defence of the accused sex-slayer Wednesday.

The jury is expected to receive case Friday. Dion, 43, a cabinet maker, is charged with capital murder in the sex slaying of Pierre Marquis, 13, one of four boys slain during a five-week period last spring.

BASHED HEAD

Provincial Police Inspector Martin Healey said Dion did not speak to him after it had been established by another officer that Dion bashed his head against a cell wall Aug. 9 and was carried to his cot.

However, Provincial Police Const. Gaston Cote testified Dion, lying on his cot, spoke to Healey. Cote said that two days later, Dion, accompanied into a toilet by five guards, sprang from the toilet seat head first at the wall.

Armand Desrosiers, 49, another constable, said under cross-examination by Crown Prosecutor Jean Blavien that Dion hit the cement wall with his shoulder and he had no bruise or cut on his head.

Desrosiers was asked by defence lawyer Guy Bertrand if he had seen prisoners act this way before. The constable said yes, in the case of drunks.

Brothers Held In Slaying

TROY, N.Y. (UPI)—State police said Wednesday two men would be charged with the rape-slaying of a 15-year-old school girl whose body was dumped in a creek.

The men were identified as brothers Edward La Belle, 25, and Richard La Belle, 23, both of Troy.

Troopers said formal first degree murder charges would be brought against the two "as soon as possible" in the death of Rosemary Sney.

The girl's body was found in a creek Saturday, more than 30 hours after her parents had reported her missing.

Anthony Maters, county coroner, said the girl had been raped and beaten repeatedly about the head, probably with a hammer-like object.

Other Sales Decline

Canadian Exports to Red Nations Will be Boosted by Grain Sales

MONTREAL (CP)—Because of big wheat sales, Canada's exports to Communist countries next year probably will account for 10 per cent of total Canadian exports compared with about 1.5 per cent prior to 1961. Jean-Luc Pepin, parliamentary secretary to Trade Minister Sharp, said Wednesday.

But apart from wheat, "it seems unlikely that... we can look to these countries for any dramatic or substantial change in our traditional trading patterns," he said in a luncheon speech to the Montreal Advertising and Sales Club.

Mr. Pepin, substituting for

Mr. Sharp, who had originally planned to speak here, said that next year the Soviet Union and Communist China will rank among Canada's largest half-dozen foreign markets.

But sales of products other than grains to Communist countries had declined in the last three years.

FINAL ORDERS

"There are signs that, because of large wheat purchases, Eastern European countries are delaying—temporarily we hope—final orders for capital goods which have been under negotiation."

Mr. Pepin said most of Canada's traditional export commodities are produced in abundance within the Communist bloc. And those countries, except for Czechoslovakia, had shown no special aptitude for export production of products which form the bulk of Canada's imports.

MANY DIFFICULTIES

"We must not underestimate the problems of developing our trade with the Communist countries... There are numerous difficulties to be overcome in developing a freer and larger trade between countries with free market economies and those where the economy is state-controlled."

One of Our Birds Missing

One of the four falcons being used at the Patricia Bay Airport to chase off seagulls failed to return yesterday after taking off.

The falcons are being used in an effort to keep the airport clear of seagulls that present a threat to planes landing and taking off.

Yesterday the birds worked hard with many seagulls in the area but one failed to return after taking chase.

"The bird is a valuable one and we are anxious for its return," said Frank Beebe, trainer of some of the birds.

"The bird that is missing is probably in the area somewhere but is down on a gull."

"The one missing is a very dark brown, almost black color and has a bell attached to each leg."

"We would appreciate it if anyone having knowledge of its whereabouts, or hearing any reports of it, would give us a call at 478-1511," he said.

Saanich Monday

Garbage Vote Petition on Way

A 600-name petition seeking a referendum for opinion on weekly garbage collection likely will be presented during the next meeting of Saanich council, on Monday.

Mrs. Marty Christianson, 4213 Carey Road, who initiated the petition a week ago because she thought Saanich residents "want a chance to say 'yes' or 'no' to weekly collection," said last night "I hope we created enough stir to make council look into it."

She said that because she is a housewife with two small children it was "impossible to get around to everyone who called during the week, but I could get more names if they are needed to get a referendum started."

Victoria Labor Council last night passed a resolution calling for Greater Victoria municipalities to use either community halls or school auditoriums that are conveniently located as polling stations for municipal elections.

Holiday Urged For Vote

Introducing the recommendation, chairman of the legislative committee Jack Driscoll claimed in the case of Victoria, where at present there is only one central polling booth, the use of schools and community halls would lead to a far greater turnout at the polls.

He cited two difficulties of the present polling station: Senior citizens often had trouble getting there. Voter parking caused traffic snarls.

"We don't get very good turnouts for the city elections and I believe this is the reason," Mr. Driscoll said.

A letter of protest will be sent to the prime minister, the minister of trades and labor, and NDP leader T. C. Douglas protesting the letting of a contract for heavy water to an eastern concern.

Edgar Ellis, president of the Boilermakers' Union, told the meeting the contract was nothing more than a political football.

He said a lot of money had already gone down the drain in west coast yards in the process of fabricating equipment necessary for manufacture of heavy water.

Victoria Waterfront

Summit Talks Urged On Work Threat

40,000 Vote Today

By IAN STREET

Ald. Austin Curtis yesterday urged city council to call a meeting of business, industry and labor representatives to discuss the threat of unemployment along Victoria's waterfront next spring.

He told city finance committee that out of such a meeting would probably come proposals that could be passed on to Ottawa with strong recommendations for action.

"It's no use going to the federal government without something concrete to propose," said Ald. Curtis. "We must talk this thing out with the people most affected, representatives of labor, industry and business."

CORRECT SITUATION

"This will enable us to determine exactly what the prospects are and what can be done to correct the situation."

Ald. Curtis was referring to the recent cancellation of a $5,000,000 ship order with Victoria Machinery Depot, on the heels of a federal order wiping out the $432,000,000 naval frigate program on which all Canadian shipyards had been relying for long-term employment stability.

LATEST BLOW

The latest blow, said Ald. Curtis, was a decision by Ottawa to locate a plant to produce heavy water in the Maritimes despite the fact that a Victoria company could do the job more economically.

"It appears that the heavy water contract went to the Maritimes because it was a depressed area," he said. "If this sort of thing happens too often, we may also find ourselves living in a depressed area on the west coast."

UNDERLINED

The seriousness of the situation is underlined by sharp increase in ship traffic to all west coast ports, said Ald. Curtis. If the shipyards get no contracts their skilled workers will leave to find work elsewhere, causing a shortage of labor to handle ship repair jobs.

"We should see that something is done right away," he said. "Remember, it's the squeaky wheel that gets the grease."

WELL TAKEN

Mayor R. B. Wilson said it was unlikely that a meeting could be called before the New Year but he added that Ald. Curtis' point was well taken. The mayor noted, however, that he had proposed a resolution dealing with unemployment in shipyards which was adopted by the executive of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and included in a brief submitted to the federal cabinet last month.

Triple Portfolio Hit

Kiernan Good, But Not That Good, Officials Suggest

By JACK FRY

Fish and game and tourist officials on Vancouver Island yesterday strongly commended Recreation Minister and Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan as a man of high integrity and ability, but doubted he will be able to do a capable job in three portfolios.

Yesterday, Mr. Kiernan was given the recreation and conservation and the commercial transport portfolios, in addition to the cabinet post he holds as Mines Minister (See Page 31).

He is also a director of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

RIDICULOUS

"Mr. Kiernan apparently is a first-class man, one of the better men on a not very strong cabinet, but it is ridiculous to suggest these portfolios be combined—the interests often are conflicting," said Roderick Haig Brown, of Campbell River, noted author, conservationist and protector of Strathcona Park.

Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade industry group of the 26-member Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, said: "While Mr. Kiernan is a brilliant man who does a remarkable job, with the growing importance of conservation and recreation this should be a portfolio all its own."

RETROGRADE

Appointment of the already busy mines minister as recreation minister is a "retrograde step . . . which is relegating conservation and recreation with its important department of tourism to a second-rate position," said Mr. Lane.

Comments of other officials: Opposition Leader Robert Strachan doubted the appointment will be permanent because "Premier Bennett likes to have a plum like this to dangle before his members during the session. The day the House progresses, he often appoints a new and full-time minister."

PRETTY HEAVY JOB

Mr. Strachan said "I think in the present stage of development, recreation and conservation is a pretty heavy job and will require a lot of detail work."

Brian Roberts, president of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association, said "Mr. Kiernan is highly thought of but there is definitely a conflict between those who want the minerals and those who want fish and game and recreational resources preserved for posterity."

"The B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs went on record in May, 1963, as opposing any commercial and mining development in any provincial park," he said.

A big bone of contention and subject of a Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs investigation is the Western Mines Ltd. development with is now under way at the southern end of Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park, on Vancouver Island.

Syd Watts of Duncan, a prominent Vancouver Island mountain climber who is a member of the Alpine Club, the Victoria Outdoor Club and the Island Mountain Ramblers, said "logging and mining at Strathcona so far have not done anything to improve the park."

"If money from mining operations is put back into park development that would be all right, but they have not done this up to now," he said. Saanich Socred MLA John Tisdalle said he hopes Mr.

Kiernan's additional portfolios are "only a temporary arrangement because no matter how capable a man is, he eventually finds himself demanded in two places at once and he can't be there."

Comox MLA Dan Campbell, of Courtenay, who was seen by many as a likely choice for the two portfolios formerly held by Earle Westwood, said yesterday he had "no comment on a decision of that nature. Many are called but few are chosen," he added.

Kenneth Hodgson, of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, felt mining and recreation will now have "a good opportunity to work hand-in-hand. It's a good appointment and he (Kiernan) is a good man."

No Bread Hike Says Bakery

Safety-Minded Sailors Set to Drive Again

Sailors aboard HMCS Saskatchewan held their own safe driving campaign before the ship returned here last Friday.

Transportation officer Sub-Lt. R. G. Mitchell said the men felt they needed a refresher course since they had been away seven months.

Safe driving booklets were given to every officer and man and $5 was put up for a safe driving slogan contest. AS Vincent Barone won with: "A safety match—a careful driver and a cared-for car."

alderman and Ralph Fryer for school trustee.

With nominations due to close in the city at 2 p.m. today, Mayor R. B. Wilson is expected to be returned by acclamation for a second two-year term.

There are now seven candidates for four seats on city council including incumbents Ald. Millard Mooney, Ald. Geoffrey Edgeclow, Ald. Lily Wilson and Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

Mr. Williams, 1625 Davies, a company director making his fourth try for a council seat, said yesterday he wants a more consistent policy and tighter control over the sale and acquisition of land by the city. Mr. Fryer, 212 Robertson, a commercial photographer, is seeking re-election as one of two city representatives on Greater Victoria school board.

He completed a two-year term in December, 1962, and was defeated by a small margin in his bid for re-election.

Until he filed nomination papers late yesterday, there was only one candidate for the two city school board seats, prompting both Mayor R. B. Wilson and board chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson in appealing to persons interested in education to run for office.

John Porteous is seeking re-election to school board in the city. The other incumbent, David Logan, has announced that he will not stand.

Milder Day Forecast

Victoria should have milder weather today, with clouds, some sunny periods in the morning and rain later in the day.

"This present system is pushing the fog out of the area, but there will be some fog patches in the early morning," said the weatherman.

Pioneers' Daughter Wed in St. Andrew's

Victoria Girls' Drill Team formed a guard of honor on the steps of St. Andrew's Cathedral following the wedding of one of their members, Sally Arlene Warren, who became the bride of Lionel Francis Crossley.

Rev. D. F. Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William H. C. Warren, 167 Helmcken Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Crossley, 751 Meaford Road. The bride comes from a pioneer Victoria family. She is the great-granddaughter of the late Capt. Douglas J. Warren and the late Capt. Frank Albany, and granddaughter of the late Capt. Fred Warren, and niece of Chief John Albany. The groom's parents are also old-time residents of Greater Victoria, coming from California in 1916 to Sidney, later moving to Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white tulle, satin fashioned with belted skirt on train, scooped neckline and lily point sleeves. A single white rose caught her three-tiered veil of nylon net. She carried red roses.

Satin brocade gowns in pastel shades of rose, turquoise and yellow were worn by the bride's three senior attendants, Mrs. Gary Dunaway as matron of honor, and the Misses Shirley Buie and Pat Lebold, bridesmaids. Mrs. Dunaway carried white carnations while the bridesmaids' bouquets were pink carnations.

Little flower girl, Miss Linda Dewar of Surrey, wore a pink chiffon and net frock and carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

Mr. William J. Green was best man. Messrs. William

Warren Jr., Bob Warren, Ron Warren, Gary Albany and Len Crossley were ushers.

Mr. Arthur Wilson of Vancouver proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in the Jubilee Hall.

The newlyweds are now making their home at 343 Island Highway.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. A. Wilson, Mr. Milton Wilson, Mr. Bud Wilson, Mrs. W. Dewar, Gordon and Linda Dewar, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wilson, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sebastiano, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. P. Thomas, Ladysmith; Mrs. S. Ryan and children Leonard and Joyce, Maple Bay; Mr. and Mrs. C. Heck and Miss Cathy Sonn, Seattle.

'Of Course' She Reads And Shops Herself

By DOROTHY WROTONSKI

Mrs. Alice Christian will be 90 years old today. Other than being a bit publicity-shy, she takes everything in her stride. Asked if she could still read and get around by herself, she answered with a terse "of course."

Mrs. Christian is really quite remarkable for her age. She lives in an upstairs apartment at 250 Government Street, which she looks after herself. Mrs. Christian does her own shopping and carrying and has some sage advice for those getting on in years.

"I walk every day because I know that at my age when you give something up, you just don't get it back again," is the way she puts it.

Mrs. Christian has never been a patient in a hospital and she has never had her "own" doctor. She hasn't needed one.

Asked if she had any theories about her healthy longevity, Mrs. Christian said she had always worked hard and hadn't really given much thought to her age.

Knitting for her friends is another little accomplishment by the lively nonagenarian. She also has a sharp sense of humor and likes to get a "thump" out of life.

Born in Manchester, England, of an Irish mother and a father whose family came from the Robin Hood country, Mrs. Christian was one of 12 children.

In 1902 she came to Canada and was married the following year. Her husband's family

MRS. ALICE CHRISTIAN... 90 today were pioneer settlers in the Okanagan Valley. The young married couple a few years later, after their three children were born, moved to a valley between Penticton and Nelson, near the Monashee Mountain. This district is now known as Christian Valley.

Mrs. Christian and her husband ranched in the valley until he died 30 years ago. Mrs. Christian then moved to Victoria, where she has lived since.

Mrs. Christian's son Frank lives in Vancouver; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Jones, has recently retired from the nursing profession in Rossland, and another daughter, Mrs. N. Campbell, lives in Mission City.

Loan Plan Popular

By TED GASKELL

Pictures valued at approximately $20,000 were taken out on loan this week from the art gallery under the women's committee loan plan.

Borrowers will keep the 116 pictures taken out until Jan. 6, when they will be returned to be hung for another loan. Last month 95 pictures were loaned and most of these were returned. Three of them were purchased and the rental was applied to the cost.

Some people keep the pictures as long as two or three months, they decide they would miss them too much, and so they buy them.

Others return them after a month because they are content to have them for a short time or, as one woman said last night, "It didn't go very well with my living room drapes."

Pictures range in value from $35 to the $600 surrealist work by Alan Wilson, who exhibited in the loan program for the first time.

This can be rented for one month for $2.

Paintings up to $100 in value rent for $1 and up to $150 for $1.50.

The three purchased this week after rental were worth $45, $150 and $225.

There were 15 new pictures on display including work by Bessie Fry-Symonds of Read Island and new paintings by Barbara Burns and Nina Forrest of Victoria.

Other Victoria artists whose work can be rented include Maxwell Bates, Emily Sartain, Alice Carey, Herbert Siebner, Nita Forrest, Barbara Burns, Capt. John Osborne, Michael Morris of Sidney, and Guy Roberts, Alberni and Sid Barron.

There's friendly competition among members, according to Mrs. Mary McKean, chairman of the loan committee, but there has never been any argument over who is entitled to which picture.

The loan gallery opens at 7:30 p.m. and members examine the pictures until 7:45 when a bell rings and the borrower places an orange sticker on the frame of the chosen picture or pictures.

Later the picture is collected and taken home.

What happens if someone gets the picture another borrower wanted?

"We just hope they don't buy it for another month," said Mrs. McKean, who saw a favorite choice go to another member of the art gallery. "I asked her not to buy it until I'd had a chance to borrow it."

The Women's Committee doesn't make a great deal of money out of the picture rental.

The artist gets 80 per cent of rental or purchase and the other 20 per cent goes to the committee and helps to pay postage, insurance and freight charges.

Pictures not borrowed this time go back in storage to be brought out again Jan. 6 to join returned pictures and probably some new ones.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You were very helpful to me four years ago when I wrote about my problem. At that time I had just lost all my teeth and wanted to know if I should enter college in spite of the fact that a gum deformity made it almost impossible to wear dentures. You said to go, and I took your advice. It worked out well.

My present problem is that I am now divorced from an irresponsible no-good I foolishly married when a junior in college. I, like so many other young idiots, thought I could reform him. I tried a reconciliation three times, without success.

During the last reconciliation I became pregnant. I filed suit for divorce without knowing my condition and decided to go through with it. I'm now a graduate student and am dating some interesting young men. They know all about me and my condition. I'm in my eighth month of pregnancy and my favorite boy-friend wants me to go to a formal dinner-dance in a couple of weeks. I feel fine and would like to go if you think it would be proper. Please advise.—UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: Any girl who is toothless and in her eighth month and can still get dates doesn't need any advice from anybody. You're doing fine. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: Cheers and congratulations to the writer who posted on his door the message: "If you are unwelcome and unexpected, you are also unwelcome." I wish I had the guts to do it.

I am a writer who works at home, too. But I somehow found that if you have a home office no one really believes you are working. Creative writing can be pure torture. A writer is working even when he is staring into space—trying to snag that elusive idea or that phrase that says it best.

Heaven knows how many times I've been zinging away at my typewriter at long last—after several days of stop-and-go attempts—only to be dropped in on by friends who say they can stay only 15 minutes. Two hours later they are still hanging around—making with the small talk while I silently scream myself to death.

By the time they leave I'm exhausted and furious, and the Great Idea has fled.

If I kept a gun in the house I'm sure one day I would be hanged for murder.—SITTING DUCK.

Dear Ducky: Feeling as you do it's just as well that you have no gun. But if there were twelve writers on the jury, you'd be found not guilty.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm only 14 but I know what I'm talking about. That 18-year-old girl who is scared to death that her father will remarry is just too selfish for words.

My father and mother were divorced six years ago. My mother was mentally disturbed and impossible to live with. The court awarded me to my father.

Three years ago my father remarried. He has never been so happy and the same goes for me. When I think of the difference in our lives it is like a fairy tale come true.

I'll guarantee you that when that 18-year-old girl falls in love and wants to get married she won't give a second thought to whether her dad is lonely or not—she'll leave. Now that he shows signs of wanting to make a new life for himself she should encourage him to go ahead. I'm glad I did and I was only 11 at that time.—MISS EXPERIENCE.

Dear Miss: You've got a smart head on those young shoulders. Thank you for sharing wisdom far beyond your years.

Flowers Arranged For Group

An interesting display and lecture on flower arranging was given by a local florist during the regular meeting of Xi Xi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held at the Passmore Street home of Mrs. P. Johnston. The lecture was given in conjunction with the Chapter's hobbies and crafts program.

The colorful arrangements were then used as decorations when the members honored a society sister, Miss Denny McLean, whose marriage takes place Dec. 21.

Among the guests were Mrs. P. Foot, Mrs. D. Gillespie, Mrs. L. Mills, Mrs. R. Frenette, Mrs. M. Greenwood, Mrs. B. Doughty-Davies, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. S. Fong, Mrs. K. Reed, Mrs. J. Jasper, Mrs. Y. McGregor, Mrs. B. Dann, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. D. Gemmell, Mrs. B. Woodburn, Mrs. M. Tassie.

Antique Recipes Make Tastier Plum Puddings

In the good old days, any self-respecting housewife would have her stock of plum puddings and mincemeat already on the shelves about this time of year. Nowadays, these items are often left until the last moment, or commercial substitutes are used instead.

Nobody can say that the preparation of either mincemeat or plum pudding is not time-consuming, but the home-made products are well worth the effort, not only for the sensation of achievement but also because the good old-fashioned recipes are so much more flavorful.

Here are recipes that are antique, unusual and delicious, and the first one is:

OLD ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING

1/2 pound of raisins
1/2 pound of currants
1/2 pound of mixed candied peels
1/2 cup of chopped suet
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons molasses
3 eggs
1/2 cup of brandy or rum
Pick over and clean the raisins and currants and place in a large mixing bowl. Dice the candied peels finely and add to the raisins and currants. Add the suet and the bread crumbs and mix all together. Add the molasses and the eggs, beaten, and also the brandy or rum. Stir well for at least 15 or 20 minutes. Place in pudding bowls of the size required. Wrap each bowl in a flour pudding cloth and boil or steam for at least five hours. Allow to cool and then store.

When ready to use, steam for approximately two hours and serve with your favorite sauce.

MINCEMEAT

1 pound of raisins
1 1/2 pounds of currants
1 pound finely chopped suet
1 pound brown sugar
1 ounce of citron peel
1 ounce of orange peel
Juice and rind of one lemon
1 pound of apples, finely chopped
1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, nutmeg, clove and mace

Pick over and clean the raisins and currants. Place in a large mixing bowl. Add the chopped suet and the brown sugar, then the apples, the citron and orange peel, all finely diced, the lemon juice and the brandy. Grate the lemon rind and add. Add the cinnamon, nutmeg, clove and the mace. Mix well, stirring continuously for at least 30 minutes (this can easily be a family job, it's rather fun and helps develop the Christmas spirit). Pack into one-pound jars and seal tightly. This recipe will provide approximately six pounds.

One thing to remember about the Christmas pudding is the old custom of placing favors in the pudding: the bachelor's button, the spinster's thimble, the dime and other items which are available in the novelty stores. Do not forget to advise your guests if you put the favors in so that they are not taken completely by surprise and inadvertently swallow something which may not be much good for them.

Bon appetit!

APRICOT SAVARIN... a yeast cake

Festive Fare

Fancy Bread Delicious

Fancy breads and coffee are delicious any day in the year but seem to be especially right during the holiday season. Here is one that is delicious and unusual—Apricot Savarin. It takes a little time to make but can be frozen—all ready for that important festive party.

A savarin is a sweet French yeast cake that is glazed with preserved fruit and this recipe is sufficient for one 10-inch cake.

APRICOT SAVARIN

Two envelopes dry yeast;
1/2 cup lukewarm milk; 1 tablespoon and 1/4 cup sugar;
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine; 4 eggs; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon ground ginger; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1 cup bite-size shredded wheat biscuits crushed to 1/2 cup.

GLAZE
One cup apricot preserves;
1/2 cup water; 1/2 teaspoon brandy extract.

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). Generously butter 10-inch tube pan. Dissolve yeast in milk with 1 tablespoon sugar. Cream butter, 1/2 cup sugar and eggs. Beat until fluffy. Stir in salt, ginger, vanilla and yeast mixture. Add flour and cereal crumbs. Beat until smooth. Scrape into pan. Cover with a warm wet cloth and set in a warm place. Let rise until double, about 40 minutes. Bake 35 minutes or until browned. Prepare glaze while savarin is baking. Combine preserves and water. Simmer 3 minutes or until well blended. Stir in extract. Remove hot savarin from pan. Four half of glaze in hot-top and down sides. Let marinate of pan. Return savarin to plate several hours. Invert on a pan. Pour remaining glaze over serving plate.

Where He Goes, We Go

Man's best friends go wherever man goes, in this case on housepainting jobs. Ben Effson, 735 Market, built a framework on his truck and installed an old chesterfield so he can take to work his three part-Labrador, part-Newfoundland pups, Jam, Bruno and Jumbo.—(William A. Boucher)

Kiernan Has Three Posts

By JACK FREY

Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Kenneth Kiernan was sworn in yesterday as recreation and conservation minister and commercial transport minister.

Mr. Kiernan picked up the two portfolios formerly held by Earle Westwood, who was defeated by NDP candidate David Stupich in Nanaimo in the Sept. 30 provincial election. He is also one of two government representatives on the board of directors for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

NO EXTRA PAY

He will get no extra salary for the two new posts. He is now making $21,000—$15,000 as a cabinet minister and $6,000 as a member of the legislature.

The responsibility of having three portfolios is "not insurmountable" but will require careful attention until he becomes familiar with his new duties, Mr. Kiernan later told the Colonist.

CLOSE LIAISON

He said he felt a close liaison has always existed between the mines department and that of commercial transport and that control of the mines and recreation portfolios by a single cabinet minister "provides an excellent opportunity to co-ordinate the different efforts."

"I find mining people anxious to co-operate in the preservation of park amenities because they primarily are outdoorsmen themselves and know what it means to look after the game and fishing."

HARD AT WORK

Immediately after his swearing-in by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes at Government House yesterday afternoon, Mr. Kiernan was leading through a stack of recreation department reports in his office on the fourth floor of the Douglas building.

His rule-of-thumb policy on parkland-mining control will be that all small parks under 5,000 acres in size which are used in any way by the public "should not be open for mining at all."

ECONOMIC ACCESS

"It would seem to me that in these cases, if prospecting can locate a useful and economic ore body (inside a park), then the business of providing access to the ore body should be the economic means of also providing public access," said Mr. Kiernan.

Use of mining roads probably would advance the opening of some large park areas by many years, he said.

Mount Douglas Gets Hi-Y Award

Dave Lawson of Mount Douglas Hi-Y received an award last night from S. A. Turner, vice-president of Oak Bay Kiwanis Club.

The award was presented to the Hi-Y student service club of Mount Douglas High School for having a program of outstanding merit during the last school year.

The club was judged best Victoria Hi-Y for operating safety patrols at two nearby elementary schools, operating a lunch stand at its school, serving refreshments at a fall fair and track meet, canvassing for charity and providing tickets, entertainment, trophies and a scholarship.

Legal Overflight Fees Wanted—But May Go

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government wants to legalize disputed "overflight" fees levied against foreign air carriers but has not decided yet whether to continue charging such fees. Transport Minister McIlraith said Wednesday.

He spoke at the House of Commons after second reading approval in principle to a bill to amend the Aeronautics Act.

Overflight fees collected previously totalled about $1,000,000, he told Leon Balcer, former Conservative transport minister.

But some carriers challenged their validity and the proposed amendments nail down the legality, he said, although a decision remains to be made about continuing the practice. Meanwhile, refunds were being paid to companies who paid the fees.

Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon), who pilots his own small aircraft, was critical of other provisions about fees to be charged for services at airports operated under the transport department. But his motion to delete the heart of the bill was ruled out of order.

Mr. Nielsen said a $1 landing fee charged on United States aircraft owners at Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver is just a nuisance tax that will curb tourism.

AS A WHOLE

Parking and other fees charged owners of private aircraft should be borne by taxpayers as a whole because all Canadians benefited.

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) said private aircraft can't be compared with autos and the day when they can is distant. He applauded the placing of safety regulations on all aircraft large or small.

Talented Pattersons Highlight Program

By BERT MINNY

A triple-feature program arranged by the Victoria Musical Art Society drew a fair but highly appreciative house to Oak Bay Junior High School last night.

Proceedings were opened by the talented Patterson family consisting of Pat, 12, Ann, 10, Bill, 8, and Susie, 6. They played a variety of instruments and sang very pleasantly together. Susie, at the tender age of six years, sang with the best, played with deft assurance on a small marimba and sported an up-to-date hairdo.

FIRST NUMBER

And their first number, a Welsh folksong called The Shepherd and His Dog, was undoubtedly their best.

The Victoria Choral Society singers under director Rodney Webster, were particularly acceptable with three European Folk Songs and this, perhaps, because these items provided full opportunity for the display of wonderful dynamic control.

The legislation passed by the council last month permits hunters to shoot the bears without restriction.

The whole program was varied and interesting.

Soprano soloist Pamela Paver has developed a mature and dramatic voice; perhaps the dramatic facet is slightly overdone at times—but only slightly.

The second soprano soloist was Faith Webster who sang Childhood's Passing and I Step Softly with music by Rodney Webster and words by Margaret H. Kiefer.

James Malanguy was the soloist for the Vaughan Williams arrangement of The Turtle Dove and a Russian Folk Song.

THIRD FEATURE

The third feature of the concert was the duo-piano playing of Richard Proudman and Miss Lynne Dougan. Of especial interest was their Music from Facade Suite by Walton (Arr: Murrill).

Next on the current season's program for the Musical Art Society is the annual Carol Tea which, this year, takes place on Dec. 14, 2:45 p.m., at the Empress Hotel.

New Law Threat To Grizzly

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Wildlife Federation said Wednesday the future of the grizzly bear in the Northwest Territories has been endangered by the open season declared by the recent session of the Northwest Territories council here.

Since the animals were protected by law in 1943, they have recovered from a threatened position "to a much more substantial population which biologists estimate at 300 to 700 animals," the federation said.

The legislation passed by the council last month permits hunters to shoot the bears without restriction.

New Vancouver Contract

Symphony Pay Settled

VANCOUVER (CP)—Contractual agreement was reached Wednesday between the Vancouver local of the Musicians' Union and the Vancouver Symphony Society, ending a long-standing dispute.

Signed by both groups, the new contract covers the next four seasons and the balance of the current 1963-64 season. It provides no pay increase for the current season but gives musicians a nine-per-cent increase in 1964-65, seven per cent in 1965-66 and four per cent in 1966-67.

Throughout negotiations, the society maintained public funds would not be sufficient to raise musicians' fees to the level requested by the union in the second year of a new contract.

Under the present agreement, musicians will receive a basic minimum of $75 weekly by the 1965-66 season and $78 weekly in 1966-67.

At one point in the dispute, the society cancelled several concerts and released imported artists from their contracts.

Musicians moved in and sponsored their own concerts, picking up the released artists. They told the society they would continue with the concerts until agreement was reached. Two were held.

Food Firm Charged: Bugs in the Beans

VANCOUVER (CP)—Charges have been laid under the Food and Drug Act against Famous Foods Ltd. of selling food containing dead insects.

The charges, heard in magistrate's court Wednesday and adjourned one week, allege the firm sold pork-flavored beans containing dead insect larvae and dead adult insects.

It was alleged to have sold chili con carne and spaghetti and meatballs which were mouldy, and sausage in various stages of putrefaction. Three of the 11 counts involve improper labelling and insufficient weight of food in cans.

U.S. Waives Ship Rule For Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government has waived the requirement that at least 50 per cent of the original 100,000 tons of U.S. wheat sold to Communist Hungary be shipped in American vessels.

The maritime administration said Wednesday it had made "intensive efforts" along with the seller, Cargill, Inc., of Minneapolis to obtain American-flag shipping. But all that could be found "within acceptable guideline rates and available by the shipping date" was 9,000 tons, the announcement said.

The value of the 100,000-ton shipment has been placed at $7,600,000 including transportation costs. This is part of about $25,000,000 worth of U.S. farm commodities for which export licences have been approved for sale to Hungary.

Under selling rules laid down by the late President Kennedy, 50 per cent of wheat sold to Iron Curtain countries must be carried in vessels carrying a U.S. flag if such ships are available.

Cleric Still Active In Second Century

ARCHDEACON F. C. CORNISH

Messages of congratulation will be read and a gift from the congregation presented at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday morning to Archdeacon F. C. Cornish, who marks his 101st birthday Dec. 9.

Archdeacon Cornish, although he retired in 1939, still helps out at the church when called on and during the past year has read the state prayers every Sunday and read the lesson in the broadcast service every fourth Sunday.

INDIAN AGENT

He was ordained in 1901 after some years as an Indian agent.

He led an adventurous life before taking the cloth.

He came to Canada from Britain in 1884, joined the department of Indian affairs and served for 12 years.

During the Riel uprising he was sent from Regina to the Blackfoot reserve, then to Sarsce and Stoney reserves and finally Fort Frances, Ont.

RIFLE BY BED

During the rebellion he slept with a rifle by his bed. He started farming in Yorkton in 1897 and four years later was ordained a minister.

For 20 years he served in Qu'Appelle, Sask., and later in Ontario and Calgary. For 16 years before his retirement in 1939 he was in charge of a parish in the diocese of Edmonton.

WAR SERVICE

He became a member of St. John's on arrival in Victoria in 1916, but for 16 months he replaced the rector at St. Matthias, who was on war service.

From his days on the Prairies he recalls knowing famous men including Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Oliver Mowat, premier of Ontario, and Crowfoot, the Indian chief who did much to keep peace between the Blackfeet and other tribes and the white man.

Mayfair Barber Fighting

Victoria barber Al Principe has refused to give up without a fight.

Mr. Principe, who faces three charges of breaking Victoria's barber shop bylaw, has decided to attack the validity of the law.

He is charged with opening his shop in the Mayfair shopping centre on Wednesdays, although a Victoria bylaw prohibits Wednesday openings.

Mr. Principe closed his shop Mondays, the same day as other Mayfair stores close. He will be tried in city magistrate's court Jan. 10.

Canadian Cash Aids Industries in India

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada made long-term loans Wednesday to India of $8,000,000 for locomotives, $8,000,000 for a hydro-electric station and $1,000,000 toward an aluminum smelter.

Agreements on the loans, backed by Export Credits Insurance Corporation, were signed by Trade Minister Sharp and the Indian high commissioner to Canada, C. S. Jha.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

The $1,000,000 loan is part of a joint financing transaction to supply foreign exchange for a $12,000,000 expansion of a Kerala State smelter and a foil mill being built near Bombay for Indian Aluminum Co. Ltd. Another $2,700,000 will come from Aluminum Co. of Canada in Montreal. Its parent, Aluminium Ltd., has 60-per-cent control of the Indian company.

INDIAN RAILWAYS
The $8,000,000 loan for locomotives will cover the purchase of 37 diesel and spares from Montreal Locomotive Works to the Indian railways ministry.

The other $8,000,000 loan is to cover the purchase of Canadian power plant and substation equipment, and Canadian engineering services, by the state of Rajasthan for a power and irrigation project.

Christmas Trees

No Smuggling Problem For Customs Men Here

Customs inspectors troubled by illegal shipments of Christmas trees into the U.S. from Canada, have no such headaches on Vancouver Island.

City Crash Not Death Cause

An inquiry into the death of a man injured in a car accident Nov. 11 showed the man did not die from injuries suffered in the accident, but from other causes, coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said yesterday.

Col. Ernest Jones, 52, of the Beverley Hotel, suffered minor injuries when he was a passenger in a car involved in a head-on collision at Fort and Bank. He died Nov. 26 in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Driver of the other car was Frank McClement, 1033 Pemberton.

"It would be like shipping coal to Newcastle," said a Victoria customs official. "There would just be no profit in it."

'ALERT' IN EAST

Customs officials at border points and in the Boston, New York and Montreal offices have been "specifically alerted" because of a plea by the Maine Congressional delegation.

The delegation had urged the commissioner of customs to watch for shipments of trees that might be dumped into the U.S. market.

MUST HAVE BUYER

It is illegal for Canadian trees to be shipped across the U.S. border unless there is a specific buyer for the trees before they enter the country.

The Victoria spokesman said much of this smuggling is done along back country roads, but shipments from Vancouver Island must pass through customs depots. He said if they were taken first to the mainland the cost would be so high there would be no profit in it.

Manger Scene Planned For Lansdowne Campus

University of Victoria Catholic and Anglican clubs, the Newman and Canterbury Clubs respectively, will set up a Christmas display on the Lansdowne campus.

When clubs director Rollie Cacchioni first requested permission to set up the display on behalf of the two clubs several weeks ago, the students' council refused to grant money for the project.

Council members argued heatedly over whether "promotion" of religion through the display should be financed by student funds.

Some council members claimed that the majority of students at the university were not religious, so that a manger scene would not reflect the belief of the entire student body.

Mr. Cacchioni then took the matter to the administration, who were not adverse to the project, but would not approve it without students' council support.

When it was brought before the council again, those members who had argued for "religious impartiality" were less adamant, and permission to set up the display was granted. The manger scene will be placed within the next week over the main entrance of the Paul Building on Foul Bay Road. It will consist of three papier mache figures.

Newman club president Ken Magee said he thought 90 per cent of the students were Christians, so that the display, "a symbol of Christian faith," was representative of student belief.

The display is intended to be of benefit to the community as well as the students, he said.

Labor Party Satisfied With Johnson

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Labor Party will campaign in next year's election on a program favoring continued U.S. leadership of the western alliance.

That was made clear Wednesday by party sources who said whatever "crisis in leadership" may have arisen briefly in the alliance following the death of President Kennedy has been solved by the firm and prompt actions of President Johnson.

Laborites, including leader Harold Wilson, feel that any attempt by Prime Minister Home, as has been suggested in the press here, to make a bid for leadership of the western alliance would be unrealistic.

Stars Right Today For Royal Ceremony

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — The royal astrologers of Sikkim have put off until today ceremonies at which a 23-year-old former New York debutante and her Buddhist husband will be formally proclaimed queen and king of the tiny Himalayan kingdom, reports from Gangtok said yesterday.

The palace monks and star-gazers originally had set yesterday morning for the ceremony to enthronement the former Miss Hope Cooke as maharani and the 41-year-old Palden Thondup Namgyal as maharajah of the Indian protectorate.

But they decided that the stars influencing Sikkim's destiny will be in an even more favorable position around midday today, and the ceremony was postponed.

The proclamation actually will be only a formality since the new maharajah automatically ascended to the throne on the death of his father last Monday.

The body of the dead king, who was 71, was flown to the Sikkim capital of Gangtok Tuesday, accompanied by the new royal couple.

Little Chap Sues For $500,000 In Gleason Fall

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A former business associate of Jackie Gleason seeks $500,000 damages for "severe and profound shock to the nervous system" caused when the ro-tund comedian fell on him.

Actor's agent George (Bul-lets) Durgom, 48, stands five-foot-four and weighs 150 pounds, also claims in the suit filed Monday that Gleason was an "incompetent and unfit driver of golf carts."

According to the complaint, Durgom and Gleason were discussing a business dispute while the comedian was driving the cart on a studio lot when there was an accident in which he was thrown from the vehicle and Gleason landed on top of him.

Durgom claims Gleason was "intoxicated with the excessive use of alcoholic beverages" at the time.

The suit, which also names Paramount Pictures, Allied Pictures and 25 John Does, asks for all medical and incidental expenses, loss of earnings and court costs in addition to the $500,000.

The audience will be encouraged to sing along with school choirs at the 17th annual Christmas Carol Festival in Metropolitan United Church at 8 p.m. Friday.

The event is sponsored by the Victoria Lions Club with net proceeds of the collection going toward the Senior Citizens' Building Fund of Greater Victoria.

Participating choirs will sing two selections each.

Participating choirs will be from Glanford Elementary School, Tolmie Elementary School, Doncaster Elementary School, Uplands Elementary School, Gordon Head Elementary and Junior Secondary School, Oak Bay Elementary and Junior Secondary School, Colquitz Junior Secondary School and Mount View Secondary School.

Program director and choir marshal is Harry Bigsby with Frank Tupman leading the carol singing.

Yukon Ore Trial Takes New Turn

MAYO, Y.T. (UPI) — The crown is winding up its case in a preliminary hearing into charges of theft, conspiracy and illegal sale against Gerald Henry Priest and Anthony (Pancho) Bobcik.

Both face one charge of conspiracy and two of theft in connection with a shipment of about 70 tons of Yukon silver ore — worth $170,000 — to a smelter in East Helena, Mont., last summer.

The shipment reportedly originated in the vicinity of the United Keno Hill silver mine at Eliza, about 30 miles northeast of Mayo.

Yesterday the prosecution's effort to link the ore to the United Keno Hill mine area took an unexpected turn.

Three witnesses linked the ore shipment to mining property called the Moon Claims — owned by Priest.

Earlier in the hearings, at least three other witnesses called by the crown said the shipment could not have come from the Moon Claims.

Lost Alleghany Power Won Back by Kirby

BALTIMORE (AP) — Allan P. Kirby took charge again yesterday of Alleghany Corp., recovering power lost 30 months ago in one of the biggest proxy fights in the United States.

Kirby, 71-year-old eastern financier, headed an unopposed slate of 13 directors elected at Alleghany's long-delayed 1963 stockholders meeting.

QUARRELS OVER "It is my sincere hope that the destructive quarrelling of the past is completely behind us," he said.

In May, 1961, Kirby lost a bitter struggle with the oil-rich Murchison brothers of Texas for control of the vast railway and investment company empire ruled by Alleghany.

But he clung stubbornly to the largest single block of stock and corporate affairs were deadlocked. The Murchisons, John D. and Clint W. Jr., started relaxing their management hold in August of last year.

Wednesday, when they officially bowed out as directors, the brothers were away looking after other financial interests in their native Dallas.

It was a striking contrast to more than two years ago.

The hotel battleground then swarmed with two armies of proxy fighters requiring several floors for their camps. One small room this time accommodated everyone for Kirby's return.

SEALED VICTORY A $16,800,000 stock - purchase transaction arranged early last July and executed Oct. 31 sealed the victory for Kirby and his allies.

Alleghany oversees assets of about $7,000,000.

Its prime holdings are effective control of Investors Diversified Services, a $4,000,000 Minneapolis - based investment company complex, and the $2,500,000,000 New York Central Railroad.

New Permanent Paintings Include Beauty and Value

By INA D. D. UNTHOFF

Thanks to the generosity of the Canada Council and to matching contributions from the women's committee's cultural fund as well as a grant from the Leon and Thos Koerner Foundation, the director of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria was enabled to go east to visit studios of noted artists and select some drawings and paintings for the enrichment of our permanent collection.

They now are on display in the Ker Wing of the gallery.

A brush drawing by Harold Town, though it did not reproduce clearly enough in the last Art-Gallery Bulletin, is and will prove to be in the future a valuable acquisition, as it shows Town at his best.

Humus 'Repairs' Soil

By M. V. CHENUT, FRES

When you buy those beautiful long, straight carrots and other imported vegetables in the supermarkets, it may surprise you to know much of the land on which these prize specimens were grown was poor, thin soil of no great value before it was worked over. The light, sandy loam of Florida and much of southern California was originally very open in texture, due to the comparatively large grains that make up its bulk.

Such sandy, infertile soil could be compared to a bucket of peas, while heavier soils with a high clay content may be likened to a bucket of flour. The particles of flour are tiny and pack closely together, while the peas are large and rounded, with lots of air space between them.

Air penetrates easily into coarse-grained sandy soil and the ground warms up quickly in the spring. It is a thirsty soil, though, for water runs straight through it, and it has no sponge-like ability to store moisture.

To get some body into such light land, the problem is to fill up the spaces between the coarse grains in such a way as to preserve the qualities of warmth and good drainage. At the same time, we must make the soil more compact so moisture and plant food is retained better.

The material most suited for filling the spaces between the grains is that mysterious substance which we call humus, derived in the first place from rotted organic matter, preferably straw, manure, but compost, green manure crops, leaves, sawdust, lawn mowings or anything else of an organic nature may be used. Close-grained dung such as cow and pig manure is especially effective on light soil, as these beasts chew their food into a much finer state than the drier, coarser food of horses. It has therefore a stickier and more binding action on sand particles.

Such hungry soil isn't converted into fertile loam overnight, for it will need to be fed regularly over the years with every scrap of vegetable wastes you can get your hands on.

Properly fed, though, sandy soil can become wonderfully fertile, for it has a texture and warmth which is congenial to the roots of most plants. Crops are earlier, bigger and cleaner once its organic content is brought up to a satisfactory level and its moisture-holding capacity is improved.

Liming is nearly always essential on light, sandy soil, as calcium is leached out so readily by the rain. This poses another problem, for the very lime that provides essential calcium for our plants also accelerates the rate at which the manure or other organic matter is used up, and so even heavier dressings are required. One way of slowing down this washing-out of plant nutrients is to keep the ground covered at all times with growing plants, and it should be a prime rule in the management of sandy soil to scatter seeds of a green manure crop as soon as any section of the plot becomes vacant, turning it under in due course.

Even a covering of weeds serves a useful purpose in breaking the force of the rain and retaining plant nutrients close to the surface.

To Your Wallets, Citizens!

WASHINGTON—A kind lady reader, disturbed about all the stories concerning political lobbyists, has come up with a suggestion that could very well be the answer to our legislative process.

She feels that the only one not represented is the citizen. And therefore what is needed is a Citizens' Lobby.

This is how it would work. A nation-wide appeal would be made for citizens to pay one dollar a month to support the lobby. The only expenses for operating the lobby would be one person to receive the money, bank it, and then issue cheques against the accounts.

This money would be made available to draw on in case of an election or some more personal need.

The legislators would be under no obligation of any sort other than to consider all the legislation from the viewpoint of the citizenry as a whole, rather than the viewpoint of some particular interest such as the steel industry, the drug industry, the farm industry, or the real estate industry.

No strings would be put on what the legislator used the money for. If he wanted to take a trip to Bermuda with his wife or secretary, he could; if he wanted to buy stock in some up-and-coming company, that would be his business; if he wanted to have a wild party or a free dinner in his honor, or a large campaign contribution, the money would be made available.

Some legislators might want to hire private planes, others might want to gamble at Las Vegas, and still others might want to spend the money on vending machines.

It makes no difference—the important thing is the money is there, so that no one will have to accept favors from individual lobbyists supported by industries.

The thing that makes the plan so sound is that if politicians avail themselves of the fund, they will feel they can support the best interests of the average citizen rather than serve a minority who couldn't possibly match the fund of the Citizens' Lobby.

There would be no guilt complexes and no recriminations, no investigations and no charges of conflict of interest. The legislators wouldn't have to make deals or promises to people who are trying to buy them. They could afford anything the lobbyists could afford to offer them.

There are many politicians who are supporting the majority of people now and cannot be bought. This is fine, because it will leave more money for those who aren't too concerned with whom they are dealing.

In order that the Citizens' Lobby work effectively, no accounting of the money would be necessary. The fund is there for any elected official to draw on. All he has to do is sign a pledge that in exchange for the gift he will support all of the people.

Many lobbyists may protest against this unfair invasion of their domain and many industries may be hard hit if the lobby goes into action. But the wonderful thing about the plan is that the legislators would have enough money to buy the lobbyists off, instead of being bought off by them.

If someone has a better plan for good government, we'd like to hear it.

Pia Prefers 'Exile'

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Ingrid Bergman is not enthusiastic about her 25-year-old daughter Pia's plan to be an actress. She thinks it's too late. Perhaps this is why Pia prefers to live alone in London, rather than with her mother and stepfather in Paris or Rome. I hear that Pia is very lonely in London although she seems to belong to every twist club. Ingrid visits her when she can. But I find the situation on the pathetic side.

This has to be a joke, but the new Treasure Cay resort hotel in the Grand Bahamas has been asked to reserve a honeymoon suite in the early summer of next year for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton. Whatever Burton does or does not do in the early summer, in the early spring and for several weeks afterwards he will be starring as Hamlet and even if Sybil Burton wanted to leave New York at that time, she will be busy in Manhattan with her job as casting director for the new Establishment off-Broadway theatre. There could be some awkward collisions.

Carl Foreman feels he needs a change of pace after writing, directing and producing The Victors. As soon as all the premieres have been attended here and abroad, Carl will take off for Israel where he will teach script-writing for two months at the University of Jerusalem.

Fred Astaire is helping beautiful blonde Jean Martin with her forthcoming cafe singing act. This is not the wife of Dean Martin although her name is also Jean. This lady is the ex-wife of coffee tycoon, Bill Black. She has been commuting from New York to Hollywood twice a week. I doubt whether she needs the money, but she does want to work.

A Quick Guide To Self-Analysis

By DR. STUART ROSENBERG

Those who are engaged in helping other people meet their problems, as counselors or clergy, equip themselves with an inbuilt "geiger-counter" which assists them in spotting the emotionally immature.

The largest number of people who have trouble managing their lives are victims of stunted emotions. They are not so much abnormal or neurotic as they are undeveloped.

It is, of course, difficult to help such individuals by means of verbal therapy alone — talking something out of a person, like talking something into him, is a deceptive and often a vain victory.

Real help — the kind that lasts — is not afforded us when someone else does the talking. It comes only when those who need help, undo their own doing and reshape their own living.

Yet, there are some tell-tale signs of emotional inadequacy — those which start the counselor's counter clicking — which can help us to recognize our own weakness.

For those who want to know what others look for in us, here's a quick guide which can help us see ourselves:

- Are we inactive and passive in conversation? Do we need constant prodding by others? Do we just listen and listen, yet never incorporate what is said in what we say or feel?
- Do we keep repeating ourselves when we do speak, stuck, as it were, to a single set of ideas from which we seem incapable of freeing ourselves?

- Do we swing swiftly from a heightened mood of excitement and enthusiasm to a feeling of being only half-awake, no longer interested in what may happen?

- Are we easily distracted from our involvement in the things we undertake and fly off in all directions at once?

- Do we want immediate solutions, fast answers to the difficulties we encounter? And failing to receive them, do we sink in discontent with ourselves and in distrust of others?

- Are we satisfied to obey the decisions others make for us, glad that someone else and not us, is available to direct our thoughts and to determine our behavior?

- Do we fear that our simple and normal mistakes may be discovered and feared more than we should, wrongly defend our every action?

These are some of the patterns of behavior and thought a trained counselor watches for when he meets with those who seek his help. In the final analysis, however, help comes only to those who are willing to help themselves. At every turn along life's way self-awareness is the first step toward self-development.

When we become capable of seeing how we look to others, we may begin to ask the right questions, and then perhaps find the right answers. Not from others, but from within ourselves.

Pope Paul VI kneels in prayer at St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City during special mass for members of Ecumenical Council, which adjourned yesterday until next September.—(AP Photofax)

Pope Paul Decrees Reform in Worship

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI has decreed Roman Catholicism's greatest reform in worship in 1,700 years and told his bishops they must assume a greater share in church government.

In a three-hour meeting of the Ecumenical Council, its last until next September, the Pope and his assembled bishops made sweeping changes in centuries-old traditions and practices.

LITURGY REFORM

Their liturgy reform, in the first Roman Catholic conciliar decree since the proclamation of papal infallibility by the previous council 83 years ago, opened the way for the use of modern languages in the mass and sacraments. Latin had been used since the third century AD.

Pope Paul's appeal to the bishops to clarify their role in church government put him on the side of progressive prelates advocating such a review in the interest of Christian unity.

BIG ADVANCES

In terms of specific business, the council's second phase produced far more than the opening session under Pope John.

It drew up the decree, now promulgated by Pope Paul, ordering a vast reform of church worship with eventual Christian unity as a major goal.

ISSUED DECREE

It issued a decree on press, television, radio and the arts, calling for freedom of information throughout the world and

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI announced Wednesday he will go to the Holy Land next month on a pilgrimage dedicated to Christian unity and peace among men.

He will be the first head of the Roman Catholic Church to visit Palestine, whose great Christian shrines have been divided between Moslem Jordan and the Jewish state of Israel since 1948.

Israel holds Nazareth, where Christ lived and first preached. Within Jordan's 2,125-square-mile segment west of the River Jordan are such religious centres as the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem.

This will be the longest trip any reigning pontiff ever made. It will be the first time any Pope has left Italy since Pius VII went reluctantly to Paris in 1804 to crown Napoleon.

FIRST PLANE TRIP

And if Pope Paul goes by air—as is expected—it will be the first papal plane trip.

Pope Paul made his announcement at the close of the second session of the Vatican ecumenical council.

His disclosure stirred speculation that he eventually may make even longer trips to the Americas or the Far East.

Speaking before 2,300 council fathers—cardinals, archbishops and bishops—in St. Peter's Basilica, Pope Paul said:

"After careful deliberation and much prayer, we have decided to become a pilgrim ourselves in the land of Jesus our Lord.

HONOR HOLY PLACES

"In fact, if God assists us, we wish to go to Palestine in January to honor personally, in the holy places where Christ was born, lived, died and ascended to heaven after his resurrection, the first mysteries of our faith: The incarnation and the redemption.

"We shall see that blessed land whence (the martyred apostle) Peter set forth and where not one of his successors (the Roman Catholic Popes) has returned.

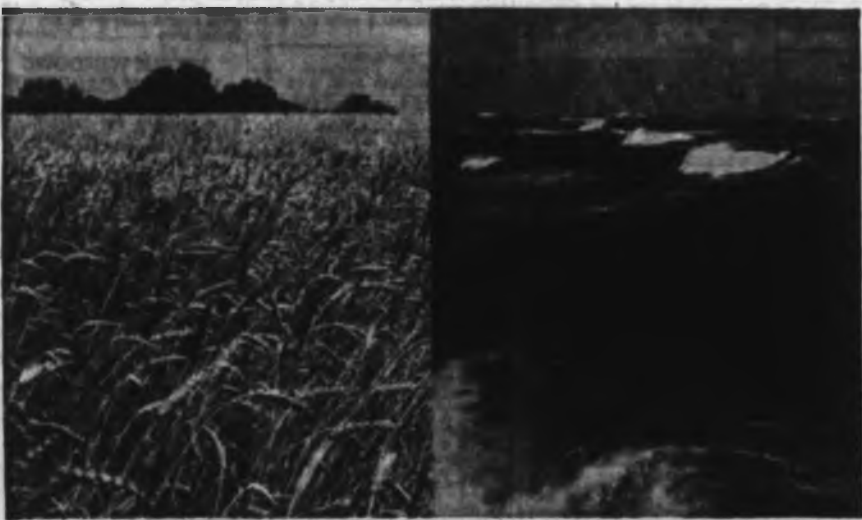

"Most humbly and rapidly (briefly) we shall return to these as an expression of prayer, penance and renovation to offer to Christ His church; to summon to this one holy church our separated brethren (Orthodox and non-Catholic) Christians; to implore divine mercy on behalf of peace among men, that peace which shows in these days how weak and tottering it is; to beseech Christ our Lord for the salvation of the entire human race."

Canada exports wheat...Canada imports Lemon Hart Rums

Canadian wheat is accepted as a standard all over the world because no one can match the combination of soil, climate, and experience that produces it. Rum, on the other hand, is not native to Canada. The best rums, like Lemon Hart, are distilled in the benign climate of the Caribbean... then transported to England where they mature quietly in underground caverns where neither the temperature nor the humidity varies more than a degree or two summer or winter, year in year out.

Obviously a good rum must be imported. And when Lemon Hart Rums reach Canada they are mature, well travelled rums, as distinguished in their way as Canadian wheat—and as well respected throughout the world.

Mungo Martin

First Indian Given Coveted Medal

Canada Honors Mungo Martin

OTTAWA (UPI)—The late Chief Mungo Martin, Victoria's well-known carver of totem poles, has been awarded one of Canada's most coveted awards. It was disclosed here last night.

Chief Mungo, who died Aug. 16, 1962, at 80, is the first native Indian to receive a Canada Council medal—and only the second to receive it posthumously.

His widow died early this year. His son-in-law, Henry

Hunt, still carves in the provincial government workshop at Thunderbird Park.

A $2,000 cash prize goes with the medal, except for posthumous awards.

The council termed Chief Mungo a "great artist" for his efforts to safeguard and perpetuate the traditions of Canada's Indians.

It said the bronze medals were awarded to him and three other Canadians in recognition of "a lifetime of outstanding contribution to Canada's artistic, cultural and intellectual life."

The others awarded medals are Sir Ernest MacMillan, 70, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for 25 years; painter Frederick Varley, 82, of Toronto, an original member of the Group of Seven; and Eadras Minville, 73, dean of the social sciences faculty at the University of Montreal.

Minville was honored for his efforts to prepare the way for "Quebec's quiet revolution."

The council said "he was one of the few who sought to drive home to his compatriots the importance of economics as a basis for and a condition of their province's development."

Chief Mungo was cited for his recordings of songs, ceremonies and other Kwakiutl culture as well as his totem poles. The awards will be presented in March.

Venezuela

British Envoy Terror Target

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists machine-gunned the residence of British Ambassador Sir Douglas Bask Wednesday, apparently signalling the broadening of pro-Communist attacks in Venezuela.

Bullets crashed through a window and damaged the coat of arms at the entrance to the residence, but Lady Bask and servants were unhurt. The Ambassador was away at the time. The residence is in the fashionable country club section of eastern Caracas.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation, the terrorist underground, telephoned newspapers Tuesday warning that henceforth British as well as U.S. and Venezuelan government installations would be attacked. No reason was given.

THREE KILLED
The attack on the British residence came after a night and day of terrorist attacks elsewhere in Caracas. In the interior and on the west coast. At least three persons were killed.

Despite their failure to disrupt Sunday's national elections, the pro-Communist terrorists pressed on in an attempt to topple President Romulo Betancourt before he leaves office in March after a five-year term.

LEONI WINNER

The count by the Supreme Electoral Council proceeded slowly. Council officials said they expect to proclaim formally by Sunday what every one knows—that Paul Leoni of Betancourt's Democratic Action party has won the presidency. With 2,100,000 of about 3,800,000 votes tabulated, the official count was: Leoni 639,287 and his nearest opponent, Rafael Caldera, 413,644.

Senators Kill Senator

BRASILIA (Reuters-UPI)—Two Brazilian senators blasted away at one another with six-shotguns on the Senate floor Wednesday, fatally wounding a third senator. The two duellists were unscathed.

Arnon de Melo, a Christian Democrat, and Silvestre Pericles, a Laborite, both former governors of Alagoas state and long-time political enemies, traded the shots.

Sen. Jose Calralli, a Laborite from Acre state, was wounded and died several hours later in a hospital.

Senate president Moura de Andrade closed the session after the shooting and ordered the arrest of the injured de Melo and Pericles. They were confined at military headquarters. It was believed the Senate would expel the senators.

The shooting started when de Melo refused to speak with his back to his old political enemy Monteiro, because he claimed the latter had threatened to kill him.

Pope's Visit

Holy Land Joyful

JERUSALEM (AP)—Expressions of joy and surprise marked reaction here Wednesday to word Pope Paul intends to visit the Holy Land in January (See story, Page 37.)

Jordan's radio broadcast the news.

"We are overjoyed, the people are overjoyed," said Mr. James Beltrill, chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church's Jerusalem patriarchate. "But about details, we know nothing as yet."

A priest in Jerusalem termed Pope Paul's trip "a really historic event."

In Beirut, Lebanon, a spokesman for the Muslim grand mufti of Jerusalem said:

"We heartily welcome the visit of Pope Paul to Jerusalem. We hope the visit will help him see for himself the facts there and the persecution to which Christians and Moslems have been subject at the hands of the Israelis. We hope by his international influence on all Catholics he may help find a just solution to the problem."

Archimandrite Goffrall Salibi of the Greek Orthodox bishopric of Beirut, asked for his see's reaction to the forthcoming visit, replied: "This concerns the Catholic hierarchy and we have no opinion."

Insurance Ruckus in Two Nations

Big Firm Drops NDP Man

TORONTO (CP)—James Renwick, a member of the Canadian board of directors of the Norwich Union insurance company, said Wednesday he was asked to resign from the board because he was an NDP candidate in the Ontario election Sept. 25.

Mr. Renwick, a Toronto

lawyer, said he submitted his resignation Wednesday and his decision was influenced by the resignation of Lord Mancroft as chairman of the company's London board of directors.

Several newspaper reports in London have suggested Lord Mancroft, a Jew with strong connections in Israel, was forced to resign because of pressures from Arab countries.

Mr. Renwick said Henry Borden, chairman of the Canadian board, requested his resignation Nov. 14.

"I was told the members of the Canadian board of directors felt that as a member of the NDP I should resign my position on the board," said Mr. Renwick. "I was also told the board in Norwich concurred with the Canadian board's decision."

Mr. Renwick said he had considered trying to convince

Mixed N-Crews Out?

PARIS (UPI)—Lawmakers Wednesday rejected, in an upset vote, the U.S. proposal for an allied nuclear force of surface ships with mixed crews.

The rejection came on a key resolution presented to the seven-nation assembly on the Western European Union (WEU), an advisory body made of parliament members from Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The assembly's vote has no binding force. But the resolution will be passed on to the governments of the seven WEU member nations as an indication of opinion of members of their parliaments.

Wedding Ring Returned

Kennedy Children's Bodies Laid to Rest Near Father

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late President Kennedy's two children who died at or shortly after birth were laid to rest near their father's grave at Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday night.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the bodies of the infants had been transferred from their burial spots in Brookline, Mass., and Newport, R.I., and reinterred at services attended by the family.

Presumably the decision to transfer the bodies of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy and an unnamed girl who died at birth were made by the president's widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

A White House source confirmed Wednesday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy got back the wedding ring she had slipped on the finger of her dead husband in Dallas, Tex., after the president's assassination Nov. 22.

And, the magazine said, later at Bethesda Md. Naval Hospital, Kenneth O'Donnell, the late president's appointments secretary, slipped into the chamber where Kennedy's body lay and brought the ring back to Mrs. Kennedy.

Muslim Joy Confined

CHICAGO (UPI)—The leader of the anti-white Black Muslim sect Wednesday suspended Malcolm X, his militant second-in-command, for expressing joy at the assassination of President Kennedy.

Elijah Muhammad, self-styled Messenger of Allah and head of the black supremacy sect, said Malcolm did not speak for Muhammad when he characterized Kennedy's assassination as an instance of "the chickens coming home to roost."

Malcolm was quoted as saying Kennedy had been "twiddling his thumbs" at the slaying of South Vietnamese President Diem and his brother Nhu.

By BRUCE COLEGRAVE

Victoria's Mrs. Santa, in the person of Mrs. Mary Smith, 1146 Hillside, is out to beat her own record in repairing and dressing dolls to help swell The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund.

This year marks the seventh year that the skilled hands of Mrs. Smith have brought joy to the hearts of Greater Victoria's most needy families at Christmas.

She takes on this yearly work because she loves the people of Victoria.

Only Money

"I once lost my purse in Victoria and in it the only money I had."

"I put an ad in The Daily Colonist and the response from Victorians was overwhelming," she says.

"I shall never forget the kindness the people showed me and I will dress dolls for the 500 Fund to raise funds for Victoria needy as long as I am able," she said.

"I am on a pension and do not have any money to give but I can help this way and shall always help others," she said.

'Hunter Broke Rules'

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A father who shot his son to death was an experienced hunter who broke just about every rule in the book, Kamloops coroner Dr. Ivan Smillie told an inquest jury.

He was addressing the jury Tuesday before sending it out to consider a verdict in the death of Gordon Prigmore, 18, of Celista, on Shuswap Lake.

The youth was shot to death Nov. 23 while hunting with his father, Glen Harold Prigmore, 40, about 40 miles northeast of here.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and did not make any recommendations.

The father said he was stalking a deer when he saw movement in a bush and fired.

Two Years Added to Sentence Because of Crime's Viciousness

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — A convicted robber — serving a long prison sentence — asked it be reduced but a court board Wednesday added two years to the term because of the viciousness of his crimes.

Roger J. Levar, 23, of Mattawa, Ont., last May locked a Kensington cab driver in the trunk of his car for 30 hours after robbing him.

ASKED REDUCTION

Levar petitioned the superior court review division board for a reduction of his four to 14-year sentence for three robberies.

The board gave him a two-year increase instead because of what it called the "viciousness of the various crimes" and the "almost total incalculable damage to the victims."

STATE PRISON

Levar's companion, Leo J. Picard, 25, of Madawaska, Maine, also received a four to 14-year term in the state prison but did not appeal.

Last May the pair held a knife to the throat of a cab driver in Kensington and took $30 from him. They tied him up and stuffed him in the trunk of his cab.

PUNCHED HOLES

The driver, Michael Legowski, punched air holes through the trunk lid but remained a captive in the trunk from 6 a.m. one day until noon the next.

Levar and Picard were also convicted of robberies at a package store and a restaurant in New Britain.

Rest Home Approved By Nanaimo Council

NANAIMO — City council Monday night gave the "go" signal to plans for a 50-bed rest home to be built on Boundary Avenue.

It gave approval to an application by W. C. and K. Eccles, on condition that all city regulations are met and the required road dedication carried out.

The Eccles already operate three rest homes in Nanaimo and report that all financial arrangements have been made and they are ready to begin work on the new one at once.

Ald. Bus MacDonald said that it was a good thing that a home was to be built but drew attention to the Rawson report which said that homes for old people should be closer to the city so that pensioners could get downtown easily to parks and other recreational facilities. He asked if the proprietors would consider an alternative site nearer to town.

Ald. Jack Parker agreed with Ald. MacDonald, but pointed out that the council was not in a position to tell them where to build. As the present site was zoned for such a project.

The report of Dr. G. H. Bonham, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, was submitted to council. The report included several recommendations including that of fluoridation of Nanaimo's water supply.

Ald. Jack Parker said that he would like to see the subject of fluoridation brought to the attention of the public again. He felt that the time was ripe.

A fluoridation by-law was presented to the voters in 1957 but was defeated by 1,825 votes to 1,315.

Ald. George Bryce, city representative and chairman of the Union Board of Health, said that time would be set aside for the matter at the board's annual meeting in February when the report will be discussed.

NANAIMO — A bylaw to borrow $32,000 for the culvert being built over the Millstone River at Wall Street was passed by city council Monday, except for the final reading, Dec. 16.

Ald. Bus MacDonald said that the fill is to be put over the culvert this week and the public would only temporarily be inconvenienced. After, he said, the public will find Wall Street much improved.

The city council streets committee will investigate two complaints from residents of Galiano Place about the ditch on the low side of the road. The depth and size of the ditch, it is claimed, interferes with access to properties and is a danger to people getting out of cars in the area.

Lawrence Olmstead, 44 Galiano Place, wrote that he would permit an easement through his property if necessary in order to get the ditch closed.

The civic properties and recreation commission submitted the commission's 1964 provisional budget. The budget for 1963 was $156,838.

City's share of the Vancouver Island Regional Library budget for 1964 will be $27,883.

Donor pins were distributed by Mrs. Eva Burns and Mrs. R. E. Hoag.

Members of the LA to Branch 49, Royal Canadian Legion, headed by Mrs. Thurza Smith as receptionist, were responsible for serving coffee.

Parkville Kinetix organized a phoning committee to contact possible donors, and served soft drinks during the clinic.

Ex-Canadians TV Rivals

LONDON (CP) — A hot fight between two transplanted Canadians is in prospect over Britain's choicest television property.

The franchise for commercial TV in central Scotland comes up for reallocation at the end of July, 1964, and two of the big bidders are Lord Beaverbrook and the present licensee, Roy Thomson.

FOUR-FIFTHS

Newspaper magnate Thomson acquired the franchise, covering about four-fifths of Scotland, in 1956, and soon after made his celebrated remark that the licence was like a permit to print money. From the start, the property was a big money-maker.

To this clash between Canadian tycoons, a special pliancy is imparted by Beaverbrook's apparent change of policy.

Over the years, his papers have stoutly opposed the principle of commercial TV. Last May, the publisher said his Daily Express group had no ambition to become involved in the field.

JUNIOR MEMBER

But this week reporters spotted Daily Express executives Max Aitken and Tom Blackburn at the offices of the Independent Television Authority, the organization which grants licences.

Aitken, Beaverbrook's son, said later: "We are a junior member of the group that has submitted plans to run an educational, cultural and entertainment station."

LEAPS, BOUNDS

Some members viewed the rival applications as symptomatic of a clash of personalities. Beaverbrook's successful invasion of the British newspaper industry preceded that of Thomson by many years, but the Johnny — come — lately is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Honored Farm Begun by Slave

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN VALLEY—An escaped Negro slave, Peter Jackson, who fled the states one year before the U.S. civil war, is closely connected with the farm of Paul Chapman on Lake Road near Duncan.

In 1860 he arrived on Vancouver Island, pre-empted 100 acres of virgin bushland, cleared a small area and built himself a cabin.

However, systematic farming of the spread did not start until Mr. Jackson sold his land for $3 an acre to the family of Richard Symonds who came in 1867 from California. In a few years of hard work, with 25 acres cleared, the farm began to prosper. But only nine months before Mr. Chapman's father purchased half of the 100 acres, the farm's future almost was finished.

A syndicate bought the land to subdivide it, but in June, 1912, the Chapman family took over and developed the land, making it one of the landmarks in the valley.

Father Solicitor

The present owner, Paul Chapman, said his father and mother, no farmers, decided to leave London, where Frank Chapman had been a solicitor. Neither of his parents liked city life, said Paul Chapman, and in 1895 the couple sailed for Canada in the steamer Labrador.

Mr. Chapman's father tried his original profession in Manitoba, where the present owner was born, and later the family sought the warmer climate of the west coast.

Just before the turn of the century they arrived at Victoria and in 1902 decided to live at Cobble Hill.

Another trip, this time to Australia, was necessary to convince the former Londoners that Vancouver Island was an ideal place to raise a family and enjoy country life to the fullest.

With determination Paul Chapman and his older brother Daniel gradually cleared the present operation of 83 acres except for a two-acre portion kept as a small park.

Most of the farm work was done by the two boys who developed one of the finest farms in the district, and established a dairy operation with high grade Jersey stock from Oregon.

Cow Champion

Without hesitation Paul recalls one of their cows, Nutley Violet's Princess, was honored in 1917 as the top Canadian Jersey cow, producing a total of 14,811 pounds of milk and 739 pounds of butterfat in one year.

"Nothing to sniff at even today," remarked Mrs. Chapman.

For almost half a century the Chapman brothers milked cows and grew mixed grain.

For a number of years the federal department of agriculture carried out tests on the farm with assistance from the Chalmers.

A new line of agriculture was introduced in 1953, and since the Chapman farm is also well known in this district for high quality, grain-fed turkeys. The birds are handpicked for many customers who before Christmas invade the farm.

Together with his wife, a descendant of pioneer stock, Paul now concentrates mainly on turkeys and growing feed consisting of winter wheat, barley and oats.

Two years ago, Paul bought

The Campbell River Fish and Game Club has collected $300 toward a reward fund in hopes of apprehending the killer of five trumpeter swans.

Election Card Origin Shrouded in Mystery

PORT ALBERNI—Mystery surrounds the origin of printed cards delivered Tuesday in support of seven of the 25 candidates seeking Port Alberni council and school board offices.

The cards listed seven candidates, purported to have been chosen as the result of "an independent survey by an impartial citizens' committee," "for the best administration."

NO KNOWLEDGE

Maurice Corbell, candidate for a two-year aldermanic term whose name was one of those on the list, was the first to deny any knowledge of the origin of the circular, distributed to some households and business places in the city.

Garnet Reynolds, also a two-year term candidate and also on the list, deplored the action and questioned the impartiality of a group which would select and recommend certain candidates. No one had approached them on the matter, both declared.

NOT APPROACHED

Howard McLean and Albert Wishart, two more aldermanic candidates listed on the card, said they had no prior knowledge and had not been approached.

Irving Wilson, the mayoralty candidate whose name was on the list, said he had no knowledge of its authorship.

Although the cards were printed by West Coast Advocate Ltd. of which he is manager, he knew nothing of the matter until he saw them stacked for delivery, he said.

Hottest Spot Today In Island Voting Is Port Alberni

Port Alberni appears to be the hot spot as 16 Island centres prepare to vote in municipal elections today.

In the West Coast city, voters will choose from 25 men to fill seven council and school board posts. In addition, ratepayers will vote on a $2,000,000 school construction referendum.

Four communities — North Cowichan, Ladysmith, Cumberland and Tofino — will elect a mayor or reeve. In 11 other centres, mayors and reeves have been acclaimed.

OTHER AREAS

Other areas where elections will be held today are: Nanaimo, Duncan, Alberni, Courtenay, Campbell River, Lake Cowichan, Parksville, Qualicum Beach, Comox, Ucluelet and Alert Bay.

Nanaimo and district property owners will vote on a $800,000 school referendum. Parksville ratepayers will vote on a garbage-collection bylaw and Duncan voters will decide on Sunday movies and a parks referendum.

Polls will be open in all areas from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Car Theft

Eight Youths Charged

NANAIMO (CP) — RCMP Wednesday charged eight juveniles ranging in age from 14 to 16 years—with theft of 34 cars from used-car lots during the last three months. The youths will appear in juvenile court later.

Police said the juveniles visited used car lots, took out cars for trial runs, then kept the keys when they returned the vehicles.

Investigators said the youths would return later and take the cars for joy rides, often without the used-car lot operators being aware they had been missing. They said some of the vehicles were heavily damaged by the joy-riding youths.

Police said two youths were found to have key rings with as many as 25 car keys.

Long Beach

Six-Day Mail In West

LONG BEACH—The old order changes, even in mail delivery. As of this week, Ucluelet, Tofino and region will receive and dispatch mail daily, six days a week except Sunday.

It will travel by land, as the last airmail to and from this area came in last Saturday. This is a welcome change (since airmail came and went only three times a week) from the old days when the Princess Maquinn brought mail away every 10 days.

In those days everyone went down to meet the boat, and pick up mail, newspapers and magazines.

Then Mr. Uchuck was added to the service, bringing mail more frequently to Ucluelet.

Next came the Lady Rose in place of the Uchuck, bringing mail three times weekly to Ucluelet.

Latest change follows development of the Port Alberni-Tofino road, which makes possible daily mail service by road while the Lady Rose will continue passenger service.

Triple Portfolio Hit

Kiernan Good, But Not That Good, Officials Suggest

By JACK FRY

Fish and game and tourist officials on Vancouver Island yesterday strongly commended Recreation Minister and Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan as a man of high integrity and ability, but doubted he will be able to do a capable job in three portfolios.

Yesterday, Mr. Kiernan was given the recreation and conservation and the commercial transport portfolios. In addition to the cabinet post he holds as Mines Minister (See Page 31).

He is also a director of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

RIDICULOUS

"Mr. Kiernan apparently is a first-class man, one of the better men on a not very strong cabinet, but it is ridiculous to suggest these portfolios be combined — the interests often are conflicting," said Roderick Halg Brown, of Campbell River, noted author, conservationist, and protector of Strathcona Park.

Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade industry group of the 26-member Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, said: "While Mr. Kiernan is a brilliant man who does a remarkable job, with the growing importance of conservation and recreation this should be a portfolio all its own."

RETROGRADE

Appointment of the already busy mines minister as recreation minister is a "retrograde step . . . which is relegating conservation and recreation — with its important department of tourism — to a second-rate position," said Mr. Lane.

Comments of other officials: Opposition Leader Robert Strachan doubted the appointment will be permanent because "Premier Bennett likes to have a plum like this to dangle before his members during the session. The day the House prorogues, he often appoints a new and full-time minister."

PRETTY HEAVY JOB

Mr. Strachan said "I think in the present stage of development, recreation and conservation is a pretty heavy job and will require a lot of detail work."

Brian Roberts, president of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association, said "Mr. Kiernan is highly thought of but there is definitely a conflict between those who want the minerals and those who want fish and game and recreational resources preserved for posterity."

"The B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs went on record in May, 1963, as opposing any commercial and mining development in any provincial park," he said.

A big bone of contention and subject of a Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Clubs investigation is the Western Mines Ltd. development with is now under way at the southern end of Buttle Lake in Strathcona Park, on Vancouver Island.

Syd Watts of Duncan, a prominent Vancouver Island mountaineer who is a member of the Alpine Club, the Victoria Outdoor Club and the Island Mountain Ramblers, said "logging and mining at Strathcona so far have not done anything to improve the park."

"If money from mining operations is put back into park development that would be all right, but they have not done this up to now," he said.

Saanich Scored MLA John Tisdale said he hopes Mr.

Kiernan's additional portfolios are "only a temporary arrangement because no matter how capable a man is, he eventually finds himself demanded in two places at once and he can't be there."

Comox MLA Dan Campbell, of Courtenay, who was seen by many as a likely choice for the two portfolios formerly held by Earle Westwood, said yesterday he had "no comment on a decision of that nature. Many are called but few are chosen," he added.

Kenneth Hodgson, of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, felt mining and recreation will now have "a good opportunity to work hand-in-hand. It's a good appointment and he (Kiernan) is a good man."

Two More Seek Office In Victoria Election

Two more candidates for the alderman and Ralph Fryer for Dec. 12 civic elections in Victoria yesterday filed nomination papers — Victor Williams for in the city at 2 p.m. today.

Everyone Waiting For Psychiatrist

NANAIMO—The new addition to the Nanaimo Health Centre is now completed.

Costing $59,000, the unit is intended to house a psychiatric clinic.

The building is finished, the consulting rooms are ready, the equipment installed, the waiting room are waiting for patients and the patients are waiting for treatment.

They may have a long wait.

There is no psychiatrist.

The department of health and welfare is attempting to get staff, but apparently private pay is better than government pay.

Until suitable staff can be obtained, the new centre, built at the urgent request of residents of central Vancouver Island, will have to remain ready, willing, waiting and closed.

Mayor R. B. Wilson is expected to be returned by acclamation for a second year term.

There are now seven candidates for four seats on city council including incumbents Ald. Millard Mooney, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, Ald. Lily Wilson and Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

Mr. Williams, 1625 Davies, a company director making his fourth try for a council seat, said yesterday he wants a more consistent policy and tighter control over the city and acquisition of land by the city.

Mr. Fryer, 212 Robertson, a commercial photographer, is seeking re-election as one of two city representatives on Greater Victoria school board. He completed a two-year term in December, 1962, and was defeated by a small margin in his bid for re-election.

Until he filed nomination papers late yesterday, there was only one candidate for the two city school board seats, prompting both Mayor R. B. Wilson and board chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson in appealing to persons interested in education to run for office.

John Porteous is seeking re-election to school board in the city. The other incumbent, David Logan, has announced that he will not stand.

Canada Honors Mungo Martin

OTTAWA (UPI)—The late Chief Mungo Martin, Victoria's world-famed carver of totem poles, has been awarded one of Canada's most coveted awards, it was disclosed here last night.

Chief Mungo, who died Aug. 16, 1962, at 80, is the first native Indian to receive a Canada Council medal—and only the second to receive it posthumously.

His widow died early this year. His son-in-law, Henry

Hunt, still carves in the provincial government workshop at Thunderbird Park.

A $2,000 cash prize goes with the medal, except for posthumous awards.

The council termed Chief Mungo a "great artist" for his efforts to safeguard and perpetuate the traditions of Canada's Indians.

It said the bronze medals were awarded to him and three other Canadians in recognition of "a lifetime of outstanding contribution to Canada's artistic, cultural and intellectual life."

The others awarded medals are Sir Ernest MacMillan, 70, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for 25 years; painter Frederick Varley, 82, of Toronto, an original member of the Group of Seven; and Eadweard Muybridge, 73, dean of the social sciences faculty at the University of Montreal.

Minville was honored for his efforts to prepare the way for "Quebec's quiet revolution."

The council said "he was one of the few who sought to drive home to his compatriots the importance of economics as a basis for and a condition of their province's development."

Chief Mungo was cited for his recordings of songs, ceremonies and other Kwakiutl culture as well as his totem poles. The awards will be presented in March.

BRITISH ENVOY TERROR TARGET

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Terrorists machine-gunned the residence of British Ambassador Sir Douglas Bask Wednesday, apparently signalling the broadening of pro-Communist attacks in Venezuela.

Bullets crashed through a window and damaged the coat of arms at the entrance to the residence, but Lady Bask and servants were unhurt. The Ambassador was away at the time. The residence is in the fashionable country club section of eastern Caracas.

The Armed Forces of National Liberation, the terrorist underground, telephoned newspapers Tuesday warning that henceforth British as well as U.S. and Venezuelan government installations would be attacked. No reason was given.

THREE KILLED

The attack on the British residence came after a night and day of terrorist attacks elsewhere in Caracas, in the interior and on the west coast. At least three persons were killed.

Despite their failure to disrupt Sunday's national elections, the pro-Communist terrorists pressed on in an attempt to topple President Romulo Betancourt before he leaves office in March after a five-year term.

LEONI WINNER

The count by the Supreme Electoral Council proceeded slowly. Council officials said they expect to proclaim formally by Sunday what every one knows—that Paul Leoni of Betancourt's Democratic Action party has won the presidency. With 2,100,000 of about 3,000,000 votes tabulated, the official count was: Leoni 639,387 and his nearest opponent, Rafael Caldera, 413,644.

Senators Kill Senator

BRASILIA (Reuters-UPI)—Two Brazilian senators blazed away at one another with six-shot pistols on the Senate floor Wednesday, fatally wounding a third senator. The two duellists were unscathed.

Arnon de Mello, a Christian Democrat, and Silvestre Pericles, a Laborite, both former governors of Alagoas state and long-time political enemies, traded the shots.

Sen. Jose Cairali, a Laborite from Acre state, was wounded and died several hours later in a hospital.

Senate president Moura de Andrade closed the session after the shooting and ordered the arrest of the slain Arnon de Mello and Pericles. They were confined at military headquarters. It was believed the Senate would expel the senators.

The shooting started when de Mello refused to speak with his back to his old political enemy Monteiro, because he claimed the latter had threatened to kill him.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson will go to Washington Jan. 22 to confer with President Johnson, it was announced late Wednesday in the Canadian and United States capitals.

Pope's Visit

Holy Land Joyful

JERUSALEM (AP)—Expressions of joy and surprise marked reaction here Wednesday to word Pope Paul intends to visit the Holy Land in January (See story, Page 37.)

Jordan's radio broadcast the news.

"We are overjoyed, the people are overjoyed," said Magr. James Beltritti, chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church's Jerusalem patriarchate. "But about details, we know nothing as yet."

A priest in Jerusalem termed Pope Paul's trip "a really historic event."

In Beirut, Lebanon, a spokesman for the Moslem grand mufti of Jerusalem said:

"We heartily welcome the visit of Pope Paul to Jerusalem. We hope the visit will help him see for himself the facts there and the persecution to which Christians and Moslems have been subject at the hands of the Israelis. We hope by his international influence on all Catholics he may help find a just solution to the problem."

Archimandrite Goffrail Sallibi of the Greek Orthodox bishopric of Beirut, asked for his see's reaction to the forthcoming visit, replied: "This concerns the Catholic hierarchy and we have no opinion."

Premier Hurt

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I. (UPI)—Premier Walter Shaw, 76, was released from hospital Wednesday night following treatment for minor injuries sustained when he, his wife and sister were involved in a car accident near Cornwall, P. E. I.

BRIEF ENCOUNTER

The invitation by the new president was originally extended in a brief personal encounter when Mr. Pearson attended the Washington funeral of President Kennedy Nov. 25. Inevitably, the January meeting will recall another and gayer consultation just last May when Mr. Pearson as a new prime minister paid his first official visit to Mr. Kennedy, who played host at the Cape Cod

Wedding Ring Returned

Kennedy Children's Bodies Laid to Rest Near Father

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late President Kennedy's two children who died at or shortly after birth were laid to rest near their father's grave at Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday night.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the bodies of the infants had been transferred from their burial spots in Brookline, Mass., and Newport, R.I., and reinterred at services attended by the family.

Presumably the decision to transfer the bodies of Patrick Bouvier Kennedy and an unnamed girl who died at birth were made by the president's widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

A White House source confirmed Wednesday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy got back the wedding ring she had slipped on the finger of her dead husband in Dallas, Tex., after the president's assassination Nov. 22.

Life Magazine said in a story

that, at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, Kenneth O'Donnell, the late president's appointments secretary, slipped into the chamber where Kennedy's body lay and brought the ring back to Mrs. Kennedy.

Mrs. Santa's Kind Hands Return Good for Good

By BRUCE COLEGRAVE

Victoria's Mrs. Santa, in the person of Mrs. Mary Smith, 1146 Hillside, is out to beat her own record in repaying and dressing dolls to help swell The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund.

This year marks the seventh year that the skilled hands of Mrs. Smith have brought joy to the hearts of Greater Victoria's most needy families at Christmas.

She takes on this yearly work because she loves the people of Victoria.

Only Money

"I once lost my purse in Victoria and in it the only money I had."

"I put an ad in The Daily Colonist and the response from Victorians was overwhelming," she says.

"I shall never forget the kindness the people showed me and I will dress dolls for the 500 Fund to raise funds for Victoria's needy as long as I am able," she said.

"I am on a pension and do not have any money to give but I can help this way and shall always help others," she said.

Late Start

Mrs. Smith got a late start this year because of a broken finger and also a stay in hospital, but she has worked late hours to make up for it and

Big Firm Drops NDP Man

TORONTO (CP)—James Renwick, a member of the Canadian board of directors of the Norwich Union insurance companies, said Wednesday he was asked to resign from the board because he was an NDP candidate in the Ontario election Sept. 25.

Mr. Renwick, a Toronto

lawyer, said he submitted his resignation Wednesday and his decision was influenced by the resignation of Lord Manroft as chairman of the company's London board of directors.

Several newspaper reports in London have suggested Lord Manroft, a Jew with strong connections in Israel, was forced to resign because of pressures from Arab countries.

Mr. Renwick said Henry Borden, chairman of the Canadian board, requested his resignation Nov. 14.

"I was told the members of the Canadian board of directors felt that as a member of the NDP I should resign my position on the board," said Mr. Renwick. "I was also told the board in Norwich concurred with the Canadian board's decision."

Mr. Renwick said he had considered trying to convince
